

Earth Day in County Takes Many Forms

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

Earth Day—a day set aside for mankind to decide its environmental future—if any—was observed today in Ulster County. Fears of a "silent spring" have prompted a nationwide Environmental Teach-In designed to point up the importance of immediate pollution controls. Locally the observance is taking many forms and will continue into the night.

Parades, plantings, panels will combine with tapes, lectures and television to underline the growing menace of pollution. At State University College at New Paltz, a full day of 17 events is planned running from 9 o'clock this morning to 10 o'clock tonight. Included are films, closed circuit television programs, stage productions, seminars, discussions, tours, tapes and other events emphasizing the environment. Gamut of activities runs from comments on noise abatement to rock music to a demonstration on yoga breathing.

A political seminar was held 1 to 3 p.m. in the lecture center with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago and New Paltz Mayor Henry DuBois taking part. Dr. John J. Neumaier, college president also participated.

An Industrial Forum is scheduled in the lecture center with representatives of IBM, Texaco, Hercules and other Mid-Hudson industries taking part in the discussion. A taped talk by Assemblyman Richard Ottinger of Westchester County, long time pollution foe, also will be presented.

Paul O'Dwyer, who is actively seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat from New York, will appear at an evening program as part of a presentation featuring faculty, students and "musical happenings" by two groups. Our Generation and The More Perfect Union. The program will start 7:30 p. m. in the main building auditorium.

A number of New Paltz students wanted to parade through the village from 4 to 6 p. m. today. Their parade permit request was turned down because the application was received too late for a special village board approval and because of the peak traffic hour on a business day, a village board spokesman said.

Parades were planned in other areas, however. Woodstock's Earth Day march kicked off at 3:30 p. m., so that school children could participate.

Led by Holly Cantine's Woodchuck Hollow Marching Band, walkers were joined by riders on horseback and people on bicycles and other non-vehicular modes of transportation in protest against the combustion engine's deadly fumes.

School children in a number of other areas walked at least part of the way to classes this morning, underlining their concern with air pollution.

John A. Coleman High School students were among those who spurned vehicular transportation and marched along Hurley Avenue this morning.

Activities at the Coleman school today included a tree planting, after school cleanup of the immediate school area, and circulation of petitions to be directed to state and federal officials urging legislation to protect the environment, with Professor Richard Glazer.

During the afternoon, guest of Ulster County Community High School students have been speakers discuss air pollution. College and David Fletcher, busy with campaigns, question-

During the day, Kingston students have been busy with campaigns, questionnaires, documentaries and exhibits. This morning students at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School heard a panel of distinguished speakers including Congressman Fish and a number of local authorities on environment.

Among the evening programs is a community meeting at the Woodstock Elementary School starting 8 o'clock. Sponsored by the newly organized group Living in a Fulfilled Environment, the program will feature a panel discussion with Dr. Ted Wansseider, assistant professor of biology at UCCC and Roy Madgewick, assistant director of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, as guests. Special consultant will be Aaron Van de Bogart, area forest ranger. Raymond A. Nelson, headmaster of Ulster Academy will moderate.

Earlier today an Earth Day Symposium was staged at the Ulster County Community College's Campus in Stone Ridge. Further ecology emphasis will be evidenced at the annual open house Sunday when the Readers Theater will present Born to Follow.

The doors were out in force adding cleanup activities to discussion of the problems. A group of ninth grade girls from J. Watson Bailey Junior High School spent the afternoon cleaning up Forsyth Park debris. With pails in hand they scrubbed walls and picked up litter as their part of Earth Day.

On the state level, Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller honored Earth Day by signing into law the new environmental conservation department.

The new department will coordinate all the state's anti-pollution efforts. Noise control, disposal of junk cars, air and water cleanup will be some of the duties of the new department which will take over regulating functions from the Conservation and Health Departments and Pure Waters Authority.

It is estimated that approximately 20 per cent of the population of New York City is involved in Earth Day activities in some way. Mayor John V. Lindsay banned all noontime traffic on a 45-block stretch of Fifth Avenue in protest of pollution. The mayor also closed 14th Street from Second to Seventh Avenues from noon to midnight. New Yorkers were advised not to drive to work today.

According to United Press International, The White House said Tuesday President Nixon welcomed Earth Day events and "feels the activities show the concern of people of all walks of life over the dangers to our environment."

NOTHING PURE ABOUT THESE DEBRIS-FILLED WATERS IN ULSTER COUNTY

(Freeman photos by Haines)

What It All Means

Six pounds of trash per person per day is the yardstick of personal pollution. Multiplied by more than 150,000 residents in Ulster County and the days of many years, it is easy to see why our once lush woods and streams are coming up junk.

This little corner of the world, festooned with the cast-offs of an ever increasingly affluent society are but a token of the environmental imbalance being wrought by man in his carelessness.

And this is what Earth Day is all about. To point the finger at pollution in its varied forms—air, water and urban—youth, educators and politicians have joined in observance of the national Environmental Teach-In. For this one day, all these people will be united in a common goal of cleaning up and saving this old Earth from burdens of a technological society.

But after Earth Day what? Who cleans up after the parade has passed and who does something after the speeches and the seminars have pointed to the dangers?

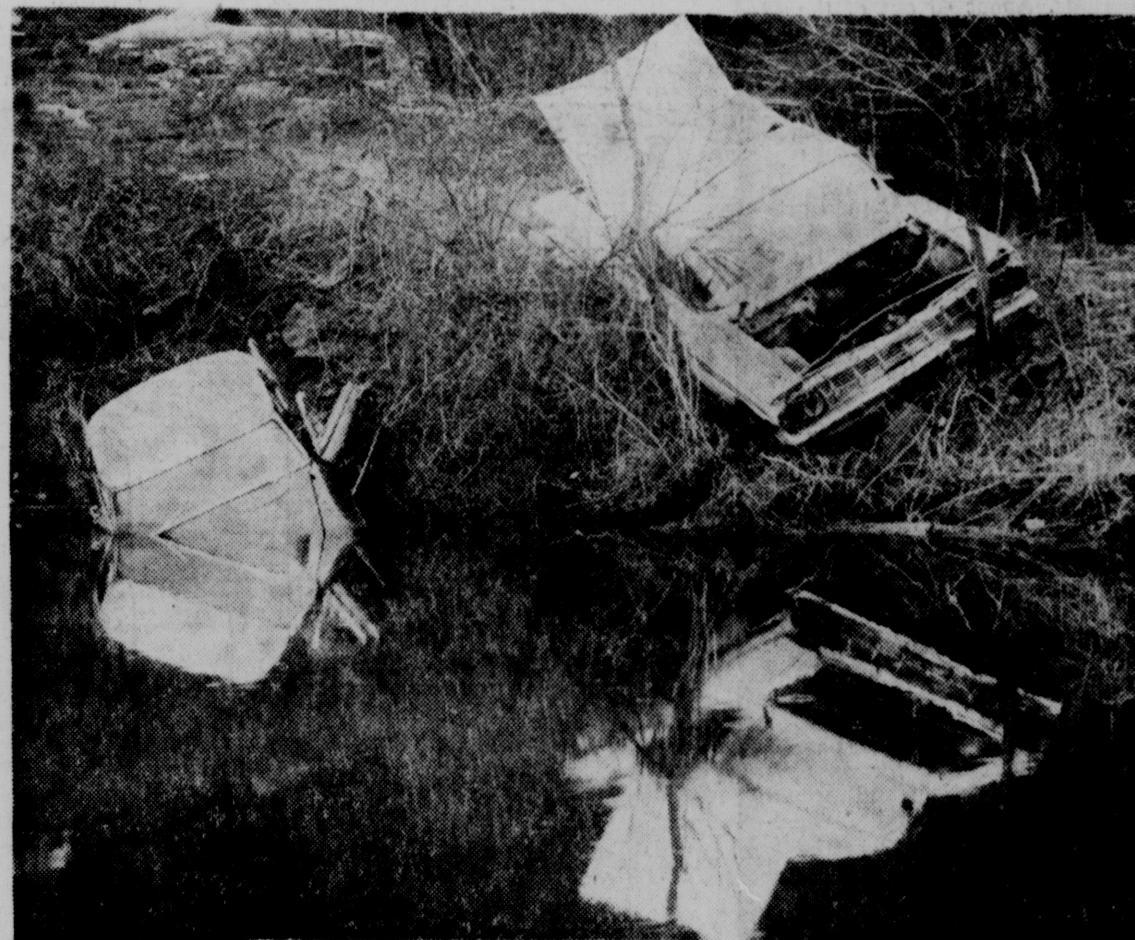

Certainly the technology which created the environmental monster is capable of creating solutions to the gross imbalance which is killing our land. Already it is back to the drawing board for detergent manufacturers, packaging experts and automotive engineers.

Meanwhile, back at the grassroots, that personal pile of trash which amounts to 2,190 pounds a year can be controlled by sensible buying and disposal.

Pollutant products can be replaced by acceptable substitutes. It will be a start in the right direction while industrial and governmental agencies are mulling over their long range plans.

Fire Kills Man, Six Children

CAMDEN, N. J. (UPI)—A father and six young children trapped on the second floor of a two-story row house died in a pre-dawn fire today.

The mother who escaped was hospitalized in critical condition.

Firemen said the one-alarm fire, controlled in 20 minutes, took the lives of Joseph McCann, 36, and his two sons and four daughters by generating intense heat and gasses which overcame them.

Fugitive Priest Arrested

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, a Jesuit priest under federal prison sentence for antidraft activities, has been arrested as a fugitive by the FBI.

Federal agents arrested Father Berrigan, 46 and David Eberhardt, 28, Tuesday in the rectory of the St. Gregory the Great Roman Catholic Church here. The two had been expected to surrender after an evening rally at the church.

The two were convicted for mutilating draft records of the Selective Service headquarters in Baltimore following a 1967 raid.

Terrorist Grenade Injures 21

NABLUS, Jordan (UPI)—A terrorist hand grenade injured 21 persons, including six Chilean tourists, in Nablus on the occupied west bank of Jordan today. Israeli troops duelled across the eastern and western fronts with Arab forces.

Three of the Chilean tourists were released after medical treatment. The other casualties were Arab passengers and passersby. Nablus is 32 miles north of Jerusalem.

Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago will seek the support of the county board next month for the purchase of the "Buick" property adjacent to the County Office Building for what he terms "a much needed" parking lot.

He will propose that fees or rates be charged those using the area and suggests that in this manner the eventual income will produce revenue for the county.

He will propose further that a building on the Pearl Street side of the property be kept in part for use as additional office space for the county.

In a report filed with the clerk of the Legislature and sent to each of the 33-member county board, Savago points out that the $275,000 price tag on the property is realistic when compared with the property's assessed valuation ($221,090) exclusive of land values.

Savago, employing a study of alternate parking solutions prepared by Herbert Hekler, director of planning, makes comparisons which show that the Buick property would be cheaper in cost per parking space than either the Plunkett Building on Main Street adjacent to present across-the-street parking or the Brugman property on Clinton Avenue adjoining the Dutch Rathskeller.

Hekler estimates the Buick property at $2,900 per space for 95 spaces; the Huntington Hotel on Pearl Street, $2,800 for 32 spaces; Plunkett's $4,100 for 23 spaces; and Brugman's $3,350 per space for 32 spaces.

Comparing these costs with the cost per space to three nearby banks constructing parking spaces, Savago said that their spaces ran $1,725 each in 1960, $4,200 during 1958-65 and $4,000 in 1970.

He also cites three 1968 purchases of property near the office building, one made by New York State which paid $98,000 for 9,785 square feet. A bank on Fair Street which paid $95,000 for 8,061 square feet and Mobil Oil on Clinton Avenue which spent $97,500 for 14,141 square feet. He points out that the Buick property takes in 40,838.75 square feet between Main and Pearl Streets and Clinton Avenue. The estimated cost of demolition would be $13,500, he states, and city general and school taxes amount to $6,838.75. The county now has an option of the "Buick" property which was approved at a March meeting of the board. No action was taken on a bonding resolution at that time due to the fact that several legislators requested more time to study county office building, the proposal.

In the interim Savago also appointed a special committee to confer with the owners of the $3,000 and land would still be acquired as there is Gross with regard to the price, not enough space on existing property for a parking garage.

U.S. Navy on Way to Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN (UPI)—Troops loyal to the government fought today with a band of 200 army mutineers who seized the Chaguaramas army arms and ammunition base Tuesday in support of the black power movement. Unconfirmed reports said Britain had sent in troops.

A spokesman at the residence of Prime Minister Eric E. Williams said one mutineer and one loyal soldier were killed today, bringing to five the number of deaths since violence broke out Tuesday. The nation was placed under modified martial law.

Several U.S. naval vessels were dispatched today from San Juan, Puerto Rico, in case they should become necessary to evacuate American nationals. Reports circulated in Port of Spain, 12 miles from the Chaguaramas base, that British troops had landed there from Barbados.

The reports could not be confirmed immediately because Chaguaramas was declared an emergency area. But they said the British troops landed from two frigates dispatched from nearby Barbados.

Fredericks Street, the main shopping center, was deserted today and all shops closed under an emergency state of siege proclaimed by the government. Passersby were stopped, questioned and made to empty their pockets by heavily armed police.

Police fired over the heads of a crowd estimated at about 1,000 and dispersed them when they gathered to watch a fire in an old deserted building across from the Red House, seat of the government. No one was hurt. Fireman Pete Braithwaite died today of injuries suffered Tuesday night when someone threw a Molotov cocktail at him while he was fighting a fire in the East Dry River slum area outside the city. An army private and a 14-year-old bystander were killed Tuesday in rioting.

All government offices, schools, stores and businesses were closed because of the fear of more trouble. The prime minister was meeting with his cabinet and was reported "incommunicado." Guards were posted around the hospital where four loyal soldiers were treated for wounds in the Chaguaramas army base. Tension increased as rumors swept the city—that the small coast guard contingent at Chaguaramas had joined the fighting, that troops from the Organization of American States (OAS) had landed, that American Marines were about to land. They were only rumors but they spread rapidly.

In Washington, White House sources said several ships had been dispatched from San Juan but called this "normal procedure" and a "preliminary alert." They indicated the ships would be used if necessary to evacuate Americans. They said there were "a considerable number of Americans in Trinidad and Tobago."

About 1,000 government troops were stationed at Chaguaramas.

Bell Tells of Legislature Accomplishments

Several State Bills Will Benefit City and County

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A score of Kingston and Ulster County programs will greatly benefit from two pieces of legislation passed during the closing hours of the State Legislature this week. Included are: Lake Minnewaska, Kingston City Housing Program, Kingston-Rondout Community Center and on-the-job training programs at Benedictine Hospital, a Highland industrial firm and in Kingston.

Announcement of the much sought-after funds and programs was made by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell who characterized the entire 1970 session as "a stand-up Legislature."

"We had all the tough issues," he said, "abortion, drugs, the Blaine Amendment, the 18-year-old vote, aid-to-education, the budget, aid to non-parochial schools, the lottery and off-track betting as well as the wars on crime and pollution."

Concerning benefits for Ulster County, Bell said that altogether the county should realize between $8 and $10 million in programs approved by the Legislature.

The latest piece of legislation gives Lake Minnewaska even more money than was anticipated. Bell, who sponsored the bill explained that the supplemental budget provides for $1.5 million instead of $1 million for land acquisition for the proposed state park.

• The supplemental budget also provided about $362,000 to construct and assist in developing low and moderate income housing under the Kingston-Broadway West and Kingston-Hurley Avenue housing programs.

• The supplemental budget provides further for the development of a "much-needed community center under the Kingston-Rondout Community Center Program," Bell said.

Still another bill passed in the waning hours of the Legislature provides for:

• Three new on-the-job training programs under the State Manpower Training Act to train 49 Ulster and Dutchess County people in skilled occupations. About 46 out of the 49 will be hired from the ranks of the unemployed.

Benedictine Hospital in Kingston will train 32 persons as nurses' aides and eight as orderlies. The training period will last eight weeks.

In a second Ulster County program, Autogen Machine Products, Inc., Highland, will upgrade three persons and train one unemployed person as machinists in a 39-week program.

Under the State Manpower Training Act the state will reimburse the firms a total of $16,916 as a portion of the total training costs. The firms will assume the remainder of the costs including trainees wages.

The Department of Labor Division of Employment also has approved another program to provide training of stenographers for 20 unemployed persons in the Kingston area. The program calls for the expenditure of $52,966.

Still another bill which passed recently affects Ulster as well as other counties and would regulate and control "Woodstock-type" music and art festivals. Sponsored by Bell, the bill would establish public health and safety standards for all future Woodstock-type festivals.

The standards would cover water supply, sewage disposal, drainage, toilet and lavatory facilities, refuse disposal, storage facilities, sleeping areas, preparation and trucking of sanitary and wholesome food, medical attention centers, fire protection and many other standards affecting environmental sanitation and security of life and health.

Assemblyman Bell has called the measure a consumer protection bill to protect the young people who participate in festivals and the communities in which festivals are conducted against entrepreneurs who do not provide adequate public health and safety facilities.

The bill places the responsibility for enforcement with the State Department of Health.

With regard to the increase in the amount of money for Lake Minnewaska, Bell explained that earlier the main budget provided for $1 million for land acquisition and establishment of a state park. Further investigation revealed however that the amount was inadequate.

Bell then interceded with Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea and requested the supplemental appropriation. Duryea, respected as a leader in the conservation movement and dedicated to preservation of open space, gave his full support. Happy with the support, Bell concluded that it is essential to preserve open space and that "certainly one would have to travel many miles before coming upon an open space area more attractive than Minnewaska."

The assemblyman also gave details on the provisions to help provide low and moderate income housing in Kingston saying, "Better housing is needed throughout the state and most particularly in the mid-Hudson Valley where we are experiencing an accelerated population increase."

"Better housing will help attract new industry, provide new and better jobs and elevate the living standards of the entire community," Bell said.

The housing appropriations are first instance appropriations made in conjunction with the Urban Development Corporation. The appropriations will assist in developing approximately 150 units of low and moderate housing and help get the Urban Renewal Program going in the Broadway East project.

The appropriations will also provide money for design and development of an additional 150 units in the Kingston-Hurley Avenue housing project and provide funds to assist development of a much needed community center in the Kingston-Rondout Community Center program.

Bell praised Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig for his cooperation in the matter and said he personally was pleased to see the opportunity for the urban renewal programs to get going.

Reviewing other legislation with direct impact on Ulster

County, Bell cited funds for the Belleayre Mountain Ski Center snow making equipment, Bristol Park in Saugerties, Wittenberg Park in Bearsville and additional school aid to the district.

Regarding the tax sharing formula, Bell said it is possible that Kingston may be able to pick up $400,000 to $500,000.

Saying the 1970 session was long, strenuous and highly emotional, Bell concluded that many issues had to be faced from a moral as well as practical, social, financial and humanitarian view.

Reflecting on what Speaker Duryea said at the conclusion of the session, Bell agreed that the Legislature body had acted responsibly, courageously and intelligently and that all the action taken was without a tax increase. Adding that he did not always vote in favor of some of the measures, he was especially adamant about the off-track betting bill which he opposed on moral grounds as he did the abortion bill. Quoting Duryea, he said the record of the 1970 Assembly actually began five years ago in first efforts to legislative reform. The improved committee structure, professional staffing, year-round programs of public hearings, the production of significant reports and studies—all set the stage for this massive effort in legislation. The 1970 session saw the assumption of full equality with the executive branch.

S. Viets Overrun Cambodia Base

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops have overrun another Viet Cong base camp in Cambodia, killing 32 guerrillas and destroying 90 buildings in their fourth cross-border incursion in a week, military sources said today.

Meanwhile in Saigon, the U. S. command announced the loss of four warplanes and four helicopters over South Vietnam and Laos. It was the largest loss announced at one time of American aircraft this year. The South Vietnamese troops reported capturing three Viet Cong and six weapons while losing four dead and nine wounded.

Sources said the government armored units drove into Cambodia 24 hours after another large push into Cambodia 20 miles to the northeast that killed 144 guerrillas and captured 15.

Since last week, government units have conducted four large scale operations in Cambodia, killing more than 600 guerrillas and seizing more than 100 tons of weapons and supplies.

Official South Vietnamese spokesmen have said the operations were conducted in Vietnam, denying incursions into Cambodia for political reasons.

Field reports from farther north along the border said fighting broke out again Tuesday around the Green Beret camp of Dak Seang 290 miles northeast of Saigon when North Vietnamese troops attacked a government position two miles north of the camp. The defenders reported killing 37 North Vietnamese at a cost of five dead and 36 wounded. Military spokesmen said other government troops killed three North Vietnamese about the same time in fighting 300 yards north of Dak Seang, under siege since April 1.

U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers flew 80 air strikes Tuesday in support of Dak Seang and Dak Pek, another Green Beret base 20 miles to the north. It has been besieged since April 12. Air Force C123 cargo planes parachuted 45,000 pounds of ammunition, food and water to the Dak Pek garrison and smaller, two-engine Caribou transports dropped two loads of supplies to Dak Seang.

Nixon Considering Cambodia's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cambodia's reported urgent renewal of its plea for U.S. arms aid in its struggle against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese has put President Nixon in a delicate diplomatic and political bind.

The President is considering the appeal, disclosed Tuesday night by administration sources. A similar request for weapons and other material was made last week by the new Cambodian regime.

Nixon has taken a position against widening U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia and is under congressional pressure to adhere to this policy, even though the Phnom Penh government of Premier Lon Nol did not ask for troops.

And the administration wants to avoid any charges that Cambodia has given up its neutralist role by linking up militarily with the United States.

Yet there is little doubt Cambodia is having a difficult time handling attacks by the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese elements and Nixon does not want a Communist takeover of the tiny nation that neighbors Vietnam.

One possible out being studied by the administration is the possibility of an international arrangement to provide aid to supporting the Phnom Penh government's neutrality.

Lon Nol opened up this possibility last week when he issued a call for aid from other nations, saying he would accept "all unconditional foreign aid from all sources."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has led the opposition to any extension of American military aid, no matter what the form, to Cambodia.

After the Phnom Penh regime's initial request for help, Mansfield said the only way for the United States to avoid further destructive conflict in Southeast Asia is to go no further "in any way, shape or form."

Other opposition to answering the Lon Nol appeal has come from Sens. Frank Church, an Idaho Democrat, and John Sherman Cooper, Republican from Kentucky.

They say they will seek congressional approval of a proposal to ban the use of American combat troops in Cambodia, a prohibition similar to one passed last year regarding Laos and Thailand.

When asked last week whether such killing might affect the U.S. decision on granting military aid to Cambodia, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said, "I wouldn't want to make a judgment."

But he said "any mass killing of innocent people is abhorrent and warrants condemnation."

Mansfield said, however, the Phnom Penh regime may be headed toward widespread slaughter of its Vietnamese residents. "The conflict," he said, "already involves the potential of an ugly genocide by government-stimulated mob action against the several hundred thousand Vietnamese civilians—for the most part farmers, fishermen and tradesmen—who come from both North and South Vietnam and who have lived for decades in reasonable peace in Cambodia."

Laird—Red China No Nuclear Threat Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says Red China could develop intercontinental missiles as early as 1973 but is not likely to be a serious nuclear threat until the 1980s.

However, he said in congressional testimony released today, if Peking gets ICBMs in three years, it could threaten the United States with nuclear blackmail because the American Safeguard missile defense system would not be ready.

The three Safeguard antimissile sites proposed now by the Nixon administration would defend only part of the United States against a Chinese attack, Laird told the House defense appropriations subcommittee Feb. 27.

He said all 12 planned Safeguard sites would be needed for full protection against a Chinese attack although a lesser number would give the entire continental United States a "very light" protection.

"But if the Chinese threat came into being as early as 1973," he said in reply to a question, "there would be a gap of several years during which the Chinese could threaten nuclear blackmail against us."

He said the first site in the Safeguard system, which also is designed to protect U.S. retaliatory missiles but not U.S. cities against a massive Soviet attack, is now expected to be in operation in 1974.

In other highlights of the testimony by Laird and the nation's top defense officials at the secret hearings:

—Laird said the Soviets' present missile buildup could put them in a position to gamble on a surprise nuclear attack after 1975. The United States, therefore, must make hard decisions by 1972 at the latest on how far to expand its defenses.

—Laird said President Nixon's plan now is to leave a force of fewer than 60, U.S. military advisers in Vietnam but, as in the past, gave no indication on how soon that could be.

—Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, outgoing chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said he has no fear of a South Vietnam surrender when U.S. troops leave "barring one thing, and that would be the disintegration of the South Vietnamese government." He and Laird expressed confidence there will be no such disintegration.

Heliport Idea to Zoning Board

KINGSTON The question of the proposed Benedictine Hospital heliport will be referred to the Kingston City Zoning Board in order that a variance may be obtained and the zoning ordinance be amended to cope with any future requests for heliports.

The Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee met Tuesday night to discuss the proposal with the resultant referral due to the fact that there is no provision for a heliport in the present ordinance, according to a report of Peter Mancuso, (D-Twelfth Ward) committee member.

A public hearing would have to be held and if the proposal is found to be favorable by the board it will be sent to the Common Council for a vote.

Common Council approval is all that is needed to enable the hospital to get its "flying ambulances" off the ground. Benedictine already has received the stamp of approval for its heliport by the New State Department of Transportation, the State Department of Health, which ran helicopter facility tests here and in Buffalo, and the hospital's governing and advisory boards. The New York State Police also have indicated that its three medical helicopters, equipped with litters, would use the facility when the need arises.

As envisioned, the 50 by 50-foot pad would be furnished with a marker and wind sock and would cost about $2,000.

Sister Mary Charles, hospital administrator, terms the proposed heliport service "a community need."

"It can save lives," she said. "As a rescue vehicle, the helicopter has no equal."

Claiming that emergency helicopters can cut the highway death rate, more and more hospitals throughout the country are providing heliports. There were only 29 in 1964 whereas there are more than 75 today.

In other business the Laws and Rules Committee discussed the city's snow problems and suggested three alternate solutions to the parking dilemma. The first would be an absolute ban on parking between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. The second would provide for alternate street parking between November and mid-March or April and the third would require the mayor to declare an emergency during which there would be "no parking" for 24 hours.

Chairman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) announced that state funds for updating city zoning ordinances were not available at present but that Kingston has high priority should funding resume.

Taxi cabs in the city of Kingston were also discussed with the committee agreeing to meet with Mayor Francis R. Koenig and taxi cab owners in an effort to solve problems and also seek all-night service from at least one cab company.

The committee decided further to request Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo to call an "informal" public hearing to sound out service problems in connection with Cablevision.

Mancuso said that the Common Council, Cablevision representatives, members of the press and radio as well as the public will be encouraged to attend the meeting.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Thursday

Tonight, snow and snow flurries will be indicated over central Rockies and the Northern Plains, changing to rain in the upper Mississippi valley. Showers and thunderstorms will be noted from the mid Mississippi valley, Southward into the Western Gulf coast. Clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. Little temperature change is anticipated from last night. Freezing and cold weather should dominate most of the nation, with the exception of mild readings indicated for the Gulf coastal states and Florida.

LLOYD'S SAVES-U-MORE

LLOYD'S RESERVES THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

WESTWARD, HO — Unable to make a go of it, the Russell Oliver family left their home in Norwalk, O., in a covered wagon drawn by two Belgian draft horses to seek their fortune in the West like the pioneers did in the 1800's. With $14 in cash and a 30-day supply of food for his wife and four children, Oliver said, "I'm going to work my way West. When I get low on food and feed, I'll stop and work." The wagon is heading West on U. S. Route 20. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Cubans on Prowl

Miami (AP) — Cuban troops called Alpha 66, said the group combed mountainous Oriente Province for antigovernment "all the necessary moral and material support" for the two-pronged invasion mounted last week in an attempt to overthrow the Fidel Castro regime.

The spokesman said Alpha 66 also was demanding a U.S.

"declaration that Cuba is already in a state of war." "The welcome and reception of Cubans living in and around the landing spot were out of the expected proportions," the spokesman said, "and scores of fellow countrymen joined the invasion forces on their way into the hills."

A statement released by Alpha 66 said, "In the name of freedom and self-determination of the Cuban people, we remind the mandataries of this country (the United States) and those of Central and South America . . . that time after time they said to the whole world they would support, help and assist any inside revolt of the people of Cuba."

Colombian Siege

BOGOTA (UPI) — The government declared a state of siege Tuesday night during wild street battles between Colombian troops and rioters supporting the return to power of former dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla despite his apparent defeat in Sunday's presidential election.

Mobs smashed windows, set fires, overturned cars and went on looting rampages before troops moved in with tear gas and arrested an estimated 500. Unconfirmed reports said one person was killed. Three soldiers were injured by thrown rocks.

Rojas Pinilla's aides promised to rally 50,000 demonstrators in the streets of Bogota this morning to "fight by all the means at our disposal" to preserve his victory over Misael Pastrana Borrero, the government candidate who has a 51,000-vote lead in incomplete returns.

President Carlos Lleras Restrepo, whose term ends Aug. 7, announced the state of siege, suspending the right of assembly, imposing censorship, creating military tribunals to try civilian cases and declaring a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

A GOP Challenge on Ford Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford is facing a challenge within GOP ranks to his effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

In an hour long speech Tuesday, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., a Republican lawyer from California, said Ford's charges against Douglas do not constitute grounds for impeachment. McCloskey spoke out shortly after the House Judiciary Committee agreed to consider an impeachment resolution against Douglas. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., promised a full and impartial inquiry by a special five-member subcommittee. Should the panel refuse to send the resolution to the floor, a second resolution calling for an investigation by a special committee selected by the speaker is still alive and could be activated at any time.

Ford, following the Celler panel's action, said he still preferred the select committee approach, which would have three Republicans and three Democrats, to the 3-2 Democratic control of the judiciary panel.

Although many Republicans have said privately Ford was making a mistake in leading the charge against Douglas, McCloskey, a 42-year-old second term, was the first to speak out publicly.

He read a 26-page speech that amounted to a legal brief opposing the case Ford made against Douglas in a speech last Wednesday.

The crew cut ex-Marine, who taught ethics in law school and edited the ethics handbook of the California Bar Association, disagreed with Ford that an impeachable offense "is whatever a majority of the House of Representatives considers it to be at a given moment in history."

"If this concept is accurate," said McCloskey, "then of course there are no limitations on what a political majority might determine to be less than good behavior."

McCloskey said all but one of Ford's charges dealt with the 71-year-old justice's political philosophy and utterances, or with behavior having no bearing on his judicial conduct. Such charges are not proper ground for impeachment, he said.

The one charge dealing with judicial conduct, and therefore the most serious, said McCloskey, was that Douglas failed to disqualify himself in a case brought before the Supreme Court by a magazine publisher from whom the justice had received a $350 author's fee. "Reasonable minds may differ on this point," he said, "but standing alone it would hardly seem to justify the serious consideration of impeachment."

McCloskey found another Republican supporter when he finished his speech. Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio, agreed with McCloskey that no evidence warranting so serious a step as impeachment had been presented yet.

APRIL 22

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 22, 1970

Success on Human Terms

Back in the early days of aviation a common saying was that "any landing you can walk away from is a good landing."

We are not so far from that age, rocket travel hasn't become so commonplace or man's machines and computers so infallible that we cannot revise that saying: Any mission that sends men into alien void of space and brings them back alive is a successful mission.

In those terms, the only terms that really count—human terms—Apollo 13 was a resounding success.

Their lives in greater jeopardy than any astronauts before them, with only the still operable lunar landing module standing between them and slow suffocation in space, astronauts Lovell, Haise and Swigert arced the crippled Apollo around the moon and carried out a crucial four-minute rocket burn to head them back to earth and a "routine" splashdown in the Pacific.

—Not before many tense and uncertain hours were endured, however. But by bringing the people of the world closer together in a common, shared concern during those hours, Apollo 13 achieved perhaps its greatest success of all.

Britain, France, Russia—a dozen nations offered the use of their ships or any other facilities to aid in the rescue of the astronauts, three men who had temporarily strayed beyond the planet. If only the nations could cooperate with such urgency in rescuing the planet itself, with its three billion passengers, from the dangers threatening them.

In terms of its original goals, of course, Apollo 13 was a failure—a $375-million bust. Undoubtedly, many people will now argue that since we have already proved that we can go to the moon, let's leave well enough alone and spend the money on earth.

Others ask why no provisions for space rescue have ever been devised. Another future benefit from Apollo 13 may be to spur efforts in that direction.

But short of having a duplicate booster and duplicate crew standing by throughout the launching and recovery of every mission, all that can be done today is to make sure that every conceivable contingency is provided for in flight plans, that emergency procedures are well-practiced during training and that enough redundancy is built into equipment and life-support systems that when something does happen, the chances of disaster are minimized.

This planning and these procedures, plus the great good luck in that the lunar module was still attached when the service module was put out of commission, are what brought Apollo 13 back home.

Rather than make us shrink from further exploration of space, it should give us more confidence than ever that this is something man was meant to do.

Douglas Ouster

For some years, there was recurrent talk of impeaching former Chief Justice Earl Warren for leading the Supreme Court into the bold field of legislation instead of its original purpose of interpretation of the law. Nothing came of it and he retired honorably. Now the emphasis is on impeaching Justice William O. Douglas, perhaps the most enthusiastic of the jurist lawmakers.

However, ousting Douglas has gone beyond a frustrating cry. A group of members of the House has called for the creation of a special House committee to study possible impeachment proceedings and a basis for them with a report to be submitted within 90 days. The resolution is bipartisan. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he would vote for impeachment, but did not sponsor the resolution, to avoid making it partisan.

Douglas was criticized for his involvement in a foundation which received funding from Las Vegas gambling interests and gangster relations. Douglas resigned from the organization after the revelation. More recently, he has been criticized for a book, "Points of Rebellion" which House members say advocates revolution in the United States. He rejected the first charge. The book speaks for itself and requires at least an explanation if not a denial of the charges of subversion.

Now that a guide to major prisons in Britain has been published by an ex-convict who had been incarcerated in 13 of them, we suppose a guidebook to American prisons will be forthcoming. The guide recommends them for good food, atmosphere and surroundings.

Israel advised Dr. Nahum Goldman, president of the World Jewish Congress, to reject an invitation to visit President Nasser in Egypt. Israel wants each side to appoint its own representative, authorized to talk peace. Goldman advocates the neutralization of Israel and peace with the Arabs.

The nine Japanese leftist students who hijacked a plane to North Korea had not "been welcomed," North Korean authorities said, but they would not be sent back to Japan, where they might be punished for their trick. Perhaps after the students experience communism, they will be glad to take their punishment at home.

Equal Justice Under the Law

David Lawrence Says Young People's Problems Matter of Serious Concern

WASHINGTON — The daily news dispatches from various parts of the country tell the disappointing story of disorders in America. For a time it seemed that campus riots were diminishing, but not only have they been resumed but even in the high schools cases of vandalism have been noted.

The cost of damage to public property has risen. In New York City's public schools the 1969 damage for broken glass, fires and unwarranted entries amounted to $3,266,000 an increase of about 20 per cent over 1968. Figures are not yet available for stolen equipment, broken furniture and defaced walls. It is estimated that the final sum may be three times as large.

Lately bombing scares have increased in lots of cities, and there have been several instances in which explosions have wrecked dwellings. What all this means is a mystery to the average person as well as to the police authorities — federal and local — who are trying to apply discipline.

Often it is stated that the "older generation" doesn't understand the "youth" of the country. But a careful reading of some of the statements by the younger militants sheds hardly any light on what the dissatisfaction really is. The explanations frequently are couched in rhetorical phrases of an abstract variety and they offer little information of a concrete nature.

Many students are unhappy for reasons of which they themselves are unaware. Thus, for instance, they are being required to go to classes where subjects are dealt with in which they have only a casual interest. Sometimes the students have mistakenly made their own choices. Lots of the young people have no idea for what kind of career they should be preparing themselves. Their aptitudes are not measured in relation to the courses of study they are taking. Many should not be in college but working in hand-skilled trades, unhappiness and unrest is the result.

Disorder is a contagious disease. In a student body of several thousands, when a movement is underway to obtain a "reform," the undergraduates are apt to side with one another. They do not always follow the orderly way — to appoint a committee and rely on conferences and discussions.

Unquestionably outside organizations, too, are at work. They send agents to the colleges to stir up dissension. Fear of the draft has been widespread. The Vietnam War hasn't been popular, and any "demonstration" demanding it end at once is immediately supported by students. Do they get or would they listen to the other side? They should be told the story of how the Communist countries can threaten the interests of the American people unless a firm position is taken with respect to military aggression in Europe or Asia.

But the attitude in the colleges toward the Vietnam War is by no means the only cause of the disorders. The colleges themselves have not been able to revise their programs to make careful studies of the needs of individual students.

Undoubtedly the use of drugs is a factor in all phases of the crime problem. But the phenomenon today is the widespread inclination of so many of the youth of the country to take dope. Excessive use of liquor often is thought to be a form of escape for troubled minds. The same is believed to be true of drugs.

While government may not be able to cure all social ills, it certainly can do much toward removing the causes of much of the unhappiness in modern times. Crowded cities now are being given considerable attention. Constructive efforts are being made to create jobs. But it will be found that the happiness of the student and early as high school days should be a matter of serious concern. Work after school, whether manual or not but something that is liked by the individual, can reduce the size of street gangs and improve the morale of youth. For the problems of the younger generation can hardly be scoffed at. What students need is more education and training in how they can be fitted into an orderly community.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The possibility that three astronauts might be left to float forever in the darkness of space plunged this house into gloom and prayer. It had an identical effect in millions of other homes and, for awhile, many of us were lost in meditation and we spoke in whispers.

I broke the silence at dinner on the first night the space ship was in difficulty by saying, wittily, I'm sure: "Why all the silence?" Kathi, 15, shrugged and said: "I was thinking about those three men." Karen, 17, said: "Two of them are married and have families." "Does that make the third man's life less valuable?" I said.

My wife, Kelly, shrugged. "Frankly," she said, "I don't see any reason why they can't send another space ship out there and hook up with those men and let them walk across with those ropes they use."

A husband always responds to ignorance with phrases like: "In the first place..." I said: "In the first place, there is no Apollo ready for rescue. In the second place, he would be going outway bound at thousands of miles an hour while Apollo 13 passed him in darkness going thousands of miles in the opposite direction. In the third place..."

"Never mind," she said. It was a dreary evening, you may recall. I told them all that, since the three men had left earth, more than their number had been killed in Vietnam, and scores of precious lives had been lost in accidents on our highways. "Daddy," Kathi said, "you don't understand. We don't know those other people. We feel we know Captain Lovell and Fred Haise and John Swigert." "From T.V.?" I said. "No," she said, "from newspapers and T.V. The kids in school say they're dying of lack of oxygen."

"I think," I said, as though anyone cared, "that the oxygen that was lost is not breathing oxygen. It's LOX—liquid oxygen." Kathi shrugged.

"I'm only telling you what the kids said." Somewhat petulantly, I said: "Listen to me for a change instead of those juvenile idiots."

The gloom was upon all of us, and each reacted in a separate way. Prayers were said and wishes were wished. The next day, the news was worse. The crippled module was aimed 140 miles off course and, unless a correction could be made, it would miss the earth's atmosphere and float around this planet helplessly with three men forever in a small prison.

It began to affect me. My ability to concentrate regressed until I could no longer shove the subject out of my mind. Random thoughts: Everytime man reaches too far to step on God's big toe, man gets the business. He pays for it.

How about the man who didn't make the flight—the man exposed to German measles. Was this fate—or was it design? Now they tell us that a battery aboard the module is overheating. Was Apollo 13 sabotaged? If so, by whom? If it wasn't, who is in charge of final inspection?

The dramatic story unfolded hour by hour. Soon the whole family was listening as T.V.

repeated the same dismal facts over and over and over. The set was left on. Every time a cultured pearl of a voice enunciated: "Apollo 13 is..." the entire family shouted "Shhh!" and stood stock still for the latest news.

Finally, it came down to a slight course correction which would bring Apollo 13 gliding to the Pacific—provided the retro and booster rockets still worked. It would occur at 11:43 p.m. one night—43 minutes beyond the girls' bedtime.

They asked: "Can we stay up?" I said "Yes." In the same breath, Kelly said "No." "We won't be able to sleep anyway," Karen said. Their mother looked grim. "Then go to bed at eleven and stay awake. But go to bed. You both have school tomorrow."

Now the young blue eyes were on dad. Would he once more assert his male dominance? Or would he surrender? "Do as your mother says," I said.

For several days, Apollo 13 was almost the sole topic in the house. Some friends phoned and said: "Isn't it awful?" and we phoned some people and said: "Isn't it awful?" There was nothing we could do about it but it riveted our attention like a cobra in a crib. No movie script could match it for building tension over hours and days.

I wondered why three lives should mean so much, so very much, to a family far away. Then I remembered that old story of the shepherd who left his flock to look in the dangerous darkness for the one lamb who had strayed...

Jack Anderson Says Pentagon Wants Taxpayers To Bail Out Lockheed Corp.

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon is trying to squeeze $200 million from the American taxpayers to help bail Lockheed Aircraft Corporation out of its disastrous C-5A transport plane debacle.

The money, buried in the fiscal 1971 budget, in an ant bed of figures, is intended to save a defense contractor from financial disaster.

What makes the 200-million pill tough to swallow is that the disaster was brought on by Lockheed's goofs, and an attempted cover-up of a $2 billion overrun.

Worst of all, there is talk that the $200 million is just the first of three installments that the taxpayer will be asked to pay for the monumental bungle.

The Air Force and Lockheed are reaching into Uncle Sam's pockets because the banks won't bail out the company. Already, 24 banks have refused Lockheed conventional loans. The company, in any case, would have to pay the banks a ruinous 10 to 11 per cent interest.

Lockheed tried to justify the hush-hush $200 million "contingency fund" by pointing to its $655 million in claims against the Defense Department — claims disputed by the Pentagon.

The Pentagon, in turn, wants to keep Lockheed from collapsing at least until 81 of the giant transports are delivered. If the firm should founder, the Air Force could be accused of bungling away additional billions.

Others, however, have suggested that part of Lockheed be put in receivership and operated to meet Air Force needs.

A less savory solution might be for the U.S. government to guarantee the bank loans to Lockheed, which would have the same effect as making a direct loan from the U.S. Treasury.

Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., is fighting the $200 million outlay and will take it to the floor if necessary. More importantly, secret hearings have been held by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

At one secret session on March 10, Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., asked Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard about the $200 million. When Packard hesitated, Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., bored in on him. Under this assault, Packard made a grudging confession.

The $200 million had been slipped into a $544 million general authorization request for C-5A funds, he conceded. He finally went on to acknowledge that it was not part of the Air Force contract with Lockheed.

Note: Packard is former chairman and chief executive officer of Hewlett-Packard Co., an electronic firm which has done millions of dollars worth of business over the years with Lockheed. He has put his stock in trust, but it will revert to him when he leaves the Pentagon. This same Packard has been instrumental in trying to line up financing that would save Lockheed.

Old Treaty Continues Rape Of U.S.-Canada Border Vista

By TOM TIEDE

CHAMPLAIN, N.Y. — Few people know about it. Probably only a few care. But each spring an awesome stretch of land along the United States-Canada border is systematically and legally cut, scraped or defoliated to death.

Why? Largely because of an old piece of paper.

The land is question is called the boundary vista. It's kept bare by dictate of an international treaty paper. It's 20 feet wide, full of poisoned trees and leafless tangle, carved out of some of the most magnificent forestland in the world — and runs more than 1,300 miles through 10 states.

It was first cut in 1842, when U.S. and Canadian officials decided the common border needed to be visibly defined. Crews hacked away all trees for 10 feet on either side of the border from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

Back then, by all accounts, the vista deadstrip was probably a good idea — it being an era of frequent territorial disputes between two young and expanding nations which, truth known, never totally trusted one another.

In 1925, when the vista treaty was renewed, another legitimate stimulus for the boundary was added: prohibition. Rum running was a nasty problem on the border — and officials felt a continued open vista would assist law enforcement.

Treaty Unchanged

Since then, through 1935 to 1970, the vista treaty has not been changed. Both nations have established small, snug boundary commissions (the U.S. half consists of seven permanent members budgeted at $145,000 a year).

Each winter the two sides routinely choose up areas of responsibility. Each spring laborers regularly go in to snuff out any new signs of vista life.

And 6,864,000 square feet of land rape quietly continues.

How much longer the rape will continue is problematic. In recent years criticism has formed both North and South, mostly from conservationists and mostly because modern methods of vista maintenance include herbicide sprays. Deadly chemicals are applied amateurishly by unskilled workers (using water hoses from the backs of bouncing vehicles) — so there is concern that the poisons may be killing as many fish and animals as trees and brambles.

Moreover, a much broader question about vista maintenance has also formed as of late, one that goes beyond just griping about herbicide use. It has to do with the temper of the times. Boundary officials on both sides of the line say that an increasingly activated public, motivated by an increasing concern for its habitat, has been writing an increasing amount of mail to inquire: "Why the hell maintain this deadstrip at all?"

The answer, from the U.S. side anyway, is hardly conclusive. Richard Herman, Washington's boundary director, is new and uncomfortable in his job. He has never seen the border vista. He says:

"Well, I just do what I'm told. They tell me what herbicides to use and where to use them. My responsibility is to fulfill my obligation. I don't want to get into a policy discussion."

Lambert's Opinion.

The other half of the boundary commission — the Canadian half — is led by a more experienced man. He's Fred Lambert, who knows the border vista from Vancouver to Nova Scotia.

And his opinion is this:

"And I know there are a lot people who think the vista should be abandoned. I get a number of irate letters on it. But I can't agree with them. Look, it's not as if we are, every spring, going out and destroying the strip all over. We only cut out any new growth that comes in. And as for the defoliants — I've seen no proof that they have done any fish or animal damage.

"My opinion is the vista is absolutely necessary. It's a clear, legal definition of the border. It helps sportsmen keep on their own side. It helps mapmakers and surveyors and miners. And certainly it helps the law. But most of all, the vista is necessary because of the boundary treaty. And unless the treaty is changed, no trees can be allowed anywhere on the border."

However, critics say the original reasons for vista maintenance are outdated. Sport poaching is now small stuff. Mapmakers have better devices than eyeballs to determine borders. And representatives of both the Custom Service and Border Patrol say the vista is "useless" in today's law enforcement.

So, in fact, the vista deadstrip remains because of a piece of paper. A 45-year-old treaty. Written in a different world.

SLP Candidates

Editor, The Freeman:
Not having seen anything at all in The Freeman the recent New York State Convention of the Socialist Labor Party held in New York City that I attended as a delegate, here is what happened.

Stephen Emery was nominated as the Socialist Labor Party candidate for Governor of New York. He is a subway dispatcher and is a former SLP candidate for Vice President of the U.S.

John Emanuel, a fur worker, was chosen as the SLP candidate for U.S. Senator. Last year he was candidate for Mayor of New York City on the SLP ticket.

The state platform said that we the people must institute democratic control and management of the economy through a new form of government composed of representatives elected from the industries. This can be done through a Socialist victory at the ballot and by backing up that victory by the economic might of the workers organized into Socialist Industrial Unions.

In 1966, the Socialist Labor Party candidate for Governor, Milton Herder, received 145 votes in Dutchess, 139 in Orange, and 125 in Ulster County.

It will be interesting to see what the number of votes for the SLP candidates will be this year.

Sincerely yours,
NATHAN PRESSMAN

No Plan to End War

Editor, The Freeman:
An assessment of Mr. Nixon's achievements during the sixteen months he has been President is noteworthy for its confusion.

But in an area where he has failed miserably is in Vietnam.

When Spiro Agnew thunders in the strident manner typical of many of history's demagogues that there is a "silent majority" who concur with the President, Mr. Agnew is talking out of his hat. The "silent majority" Spiro Agnew fabricated is indeed a myth. Mr. Nixon was only "shoved" into office by a majority because he promised a weary American public that he had a plan to end the war in Vietnam.

We now see that there is no such plan. Siphoning off even 250,000 soldiers from Vietnam with the very real and menacing possibility of maintaining a force of 250,000 in Vietnam is no "plan."

We had no business to be in Vietnam. The specious reasons for our being there, to wit: "The containment of communism" and the thoroughly discredited "Tonkin Bay Resolution" have resulted in our present dilemma, namely: that of fighting a wretched, immoral, senseless war, slaughtering innocent Vietnamese as well as massacring them, and killing more than 40,000 American young men.

We need visionaries at the helm of our government, men of good-will, imagination and intellect; instead we have blatant mediocrity which continues to follow the old rutted road of obsolete politics and barbaric war. Anyone who continues to talk about a "just peace" or an "honorable peace" in the face of the dishonorable war is ignorant of the issues of the war.

Mr. Nixon was eager to fight the Vietnamese in 1953 and a wiser President (the late Mr. Eisenhower) deterred Mr. Nixon. But the President has apparently learned little since. We, the American people, must suffer for that failure to learn.

Students Views on Pollution

Editor, The Freeman:
Enclosed is a sample of letters my students have written on the subject of pollution. They have worked very diligently on the subject of ecology and would appreciate your cooperation in publishing the enclosed in your "Letters to Editor" column.

I trust you will recognize their efforts.

Sincerely,
SHARON A. MURPHY
Eighth Grade
Social Studies

As a student of the Rondout Valley Middle School, I would like to take the chance to express my views on pollution. If we could liken ourselves to the hopeless position of the American Buffalo in the 1800's, we would find ourselves on the edge of extinction. The greedy hunters caring nothing for life are the large industries who are constantly dumping their wastes into the world's one and only supply of fresh water. With the Buffalo gone, the Indian found the way of life he had known was gone. As for society today, when its life supporting substance, water, is beyond use we will no doubt suffer.

Maybe this problem isn't that bad yet, but what of that of our wildlife. Already hundreds of birds have died in oil slicks and the number of fish, etc., killed is probably 10 times this. I'm sure you'd agree with me that something must be done, and the public must be urged to fight pollution.

High School Concert

Editor, The Freeman:
Last week my wife and I saw in The Freeman an account of a performance to be given by the Kingston High School Orchestra the following day. The article didn't state whether the concert was open to the public or whether any admission fee would be charged.

Being "Senior Citizens" but nevertheless much interested in all the activities of children and especially teenagers, we decided to attend the concert.

I cannot speak too highly of every one of the performers, and the remarkable job done by their conductor, Mr. Baczynsky. The selections played had great variety and they seemed designed to give every instrument an opportunity to exhibit the proficiency of the performer.

The girls and boys were dignified and truly behaved like professionals. I was quite pleasantly surprised to see how few "long hairs" there were amongst the boys and the idea of young lady artists playing the flute and violin dressed in mini-skirts was new and quite refreshing.

The only sad thing about an otherwise very enjoyable evening was the size of the audience. My guess was that it consisted for the most part of the families of the artists. They must have felt well rewarded, but people who throw up their hands in despair at the young people of today missed a wonderful opportunity to see the other side of the coin. I only hope that more publicity be given this activity next time. The auditorium should be full.

Sincerely yours,

Tannery Brook

Editor, The Freeman:
I want you to publish this letter in The Daily Freeman. Here's the story. I go to school in Woodstock and there is a stream behind our classroom. The name of the stream is the Tannery Brook. I can see sewage running into the water under the bridge, also cans, wood, bicycle parts, books, a piece of tin, and other things. And most of all the smell.

We have found an ordinance passed by the Town Board of Woodstock on August 21, 1934, almost 36 years ago. Part of it says, "No waste from sinks, wash basins, toilets or other fixtures shall be discharged upon the ground or into any stream or water course. All such waste shall be led to properly constructed cesspools, which shall not be allowed to overflow. . . . Violations shall subject the offender to a penalty of not more than $25.00."

I would like to see this ordinance strictly enforced starting today.

Maroons for Vietnam

Editor, The Freeman:
The following letter was sent to the "Maroons for Vietnam Committee" in the Kingston High School.

Dear Committee Members,
I recently heard about the program you have been carrying out the last few years called, "Maroons for Vietnam."

Being a Vietnam returnee and a K.H.S. graduate, I know what this will mean to any serviceman who receives one. He will know that not only his country, family and friends know that he's there, but his alma mater does too, and that's also important. This is a wonderful idea and I hope it will catch on to other schools regardless of what our political views concerning the war might be.

"God bless you all" for your efforts and may your project be a great success.

Very sincerely,

Prayers for Astronauts

Editor, The Freeman:
Can I believe my ears when this morning's news stated that many distinguished men had said that they were praying for the astronauts and that Congress was also praying?

Don't they know that the Supreme Court has ruled against prayers in the schools so that our children will hopefully grow up to be agnostics or atheists. Anyone who has been through great danger, sorrow or stress knows that in desperate moments the soul of man instinctively cries out to what Emerson called the Great Over-soul. It is not a question then of Puritan, Jewish, Mohammedan, Moslem or any other dogma, but of instinct.

Can it be that the comic magazine "Pogo" was right when it published in the back of an issue two years ago this little line — "God is not dead. He is simply unemployed?"

Very truly,
FRANCES D. PRESTON

Library Lists Special Program; Sweeny to Talk on Public Relations

KINGSTON
Patrick Sweeny, public relations consultant for Mid-Hudson Libraries, will speak on "Public Relations in a Changing World" on May 20 at 8 p.m., a special program planned by the Kingston Area Library designed to help local organizations learn better techniques to public relations. Sweeny's lecture will include specific suggestions on how an organization can effectively get its message across. He will conduct a question and answer session and there will also be a display of library materials dealing with the topic of public relations. Any local organization is invited to send a representative. Further information can be obtained by calling the Kingston Area Library. The Kingston Area Library has just concluded a week of special events in conjunction with National Library Week. A number of school classes toured the library so that they could become more familiar with the materials that are available. A drive for new library associations members is now in progress. The Kingston Area Library Association constitutes the governing body of the library and last year over 150 contributions become members of this association. According to Mrs. Caroline Matzen, library director, the response so far this year has been encouraging. Today and Thursday, members of the Kingston High School Key Club will be out canvassing neighborhoods in an effort to help the library with its membership drive. Boys from the Key Club have done this for several years, contributing greatly to the success of the membership drive.

Cambodia—Any U.S. Position Faces Criticism

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

So far as Cambodia is concerned, the United States is damned if it does and damned if it doesn't. The Nixon administration is in a position in which anything it does now can, later on, be judged to have been wrong.

If, as Cambodia asks, the United States supplies arms to the new coup-born regime, it risks widened war in Southeast Asia. If it does not, it risks so sharp a change in the Southeast Asia climate as to impel other nations to make whatever peace they can with Asia's Communists. The United States will be in many Asian eyes, the paper tiger Mao Tse-tung has always said it is.

Yet when Washington weighs the pros and cons of responding to the new Cambodian regime's plea, it must be acutely aware of the memories this will evoke of how the South Vietnam involvement developed. Surely there will be cries of "Here we go again!"

President Nixon is finding that Indochina's conflicts are self-escalatory. Rapidly deteriorating situations in Laos and Cambodia, both now invaded by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, pose a formidable threat to efforts to scale down the American role in neighboring South Vietnam.

If invasion can turn Cambodia into a pliant Communist satellite, South Vietnam will be outflanked and menaced from another deep rear area. Vietnamization, President Nixon's hope of ending U.S. combat activity, might be greatly delayed if there was to be any assurance of Saigon holding out.

There are unpleasant similarities between today's Cambodia situation and that in Vietnam in 1963 after a military coup there, an event which signaled the sharp American escalation. Before then, Americans had been told by President John F. Kennedy that "Communist aggression has been blunted" in Indochina.

Cambodia today is asking for arms, not U.S. personnel. But arms alone failed to hold the South Vietnamese, whose situation by 1965 looked hopeless. Cambodia's ragtag little army is hardly any better equipped to face the battle-toughened Viet Cong and North Vietnamese than were the South Vietnamese in those days.

Suppose the Americans refuse to become further involved.

Suppose, in fact, the program of phased U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam continues apace, regardless of events in the rest of Indochina. Suppose North Vietnam and its Viet Cong ally wind up dominating both Laos and Cambodia.

Well, for one thing, it would likely get the whole question of Asia and its future back to where it was when the U.S. venture in Vietnam was beginning.

The big fact of political life in Southeast Asia is Communist China, that enormous, sprawling giant whose presence broods over the whole continent. With Communist forces in control of most of Indochina, other nations in Southeast Asia are going to begin worrying about their futures.

If, after all these years, the United States can do no more than protect a relatively tiny enclave in Southeast Asia, perhaps the time will have come for the other nations to accept the inevitable and accommodate themselves to the giant in the north as best they can. In the long run this likely would mean that the American expenditure in Vietnam would have been for little.

Is there any insurance against such an outcome? There might be, for example, in an international conference such as the French government has proposed, possibly after preliminary probing for opinion in Washington, Moscow and elsewhere. In some circumstances, Moscow might be interested in view of its own worries about China.

However, up to now all the French can say about their effort is that the Americans have shown some discreet interest. The implication is that there was not much show of interest in the Communist camp which for the time being, at least, seems to have no objection to seeing the United States become even more embroiled in the enormously frustrating situation that is Indochina.

Plenty of Beef, Cattlemen Vow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen say they will produce plenty of beef for expanding consumer appetites, but only if prices remain high and the federal government keeps its nose out.

"We think, and we're confident, that the cattle industry is going to continue to produce beef at a rate which would allow a further increase in the per capita level of consumption," says C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

"But we need to be sure to have the economic incentive to do it," McMillan said during an interview with ANCA leaders. "Of course, this is reflected in prices."

William D. Farr, ANCA president, whose feedlots near Greeley, Colo., turn out nearly 20,000 tons of quality beef annually, said today's cattle prices—generally the highest in many years—would provide such incentive. The ANCA remarks followed a congressional committee action recently which turned back a report calling for more federal supervision of the cattle business.

The report, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., urged Congress to set up a special commission to determine "the adequacy of the meat supply" at all marketing levels from ranches to supermarkets.

The report also said present U.S. meat import quota regulations were detrimental to consumers by restricting the amount of foreign beef allowed to come into this country.

Farr and other cattlemen opposed the recommendation and effectively lobbied last week against the report.

The Monagan report charged cattlemen have not kept pace with demand and that unless action is taken soon the nation could have a serious beef shortage by 1975.

Per capita beef consumption rose from about 60 pounds a year after World War II to 110 pounds last year, McMillan said, "and this wasn't done through any public utilities approach" or federal commission riding herd on the cattle business.

Choice steers (those most in consumer demand) last June in Chicago brought about $35 per 100 pounds, the highest in 17 years. Prices recently have been around $31 or $32 per hundredweight.

Farr said that considering present costs—from feed to taxes and interest—current prices would encourage gradual expansion of the nation's beef herd.

Wiltwyck Senior CAP Squad Ready

KINGSTON — The newly formed Wiltwyck Senior Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol is reported ready for operation but requires a few more volunteers to fill vital posts in the organization.

The name Wiltwyck Senior Squadron was chosen because it has local significance as it was the first name of Kingston, Port Ewen, and also the Kings- ton Airport on Rte. 32, Flat- bush, to be used for flight operations. Additional classroom space will be available at the Governor Clinton Hotel Civic Room if required.

At the present time there is a need for capable personnel to assist the information, communications and the training officers.

Senior citizens interested in any of the above openings may phone Sergeant Barbara Schneider, Information Officer, after 7 p.m. evenings and any time on weekends, or by writing to Civil Air Patrol, CPO Box 832, Kingston.

Tight Job Market for Graduating College Seniors

NEW YORK (AP) — Graduating college seniors, accustomed to being wooed by business and industry, will find it harder getting jobs this summer than in past years.

A tight job market resulting from a general economic slowdown and cutbacks in government defense expenditures will have the class of 1970 scrambling after jobs rather than being chased by companies. But there will be enough positions to go around.

Students can take some consolation, however, from the fact that salaries will be record high for those winning the top positions. On the other hand, some students in certain fields may have to consider changing careers.

An Associated Press survey shows these trends shaping up on campuses across the country: —The number of companies cancelling recruiting visits is running as high as 25 per cent at some colleges and universities.

—Students with bachelor degrees in the technical fields will be the hardest hit. There is little demand in the aerospace, electronics, electrical machinery and automotive industries.

—The higher the degree a student has, the less chance he has of getting a job he wants. It's a bad year for holders of master's degrees and doctorates with many advanced-degree alumni returning to their alma maters to seek help in finding jobs.

—Companies are more picky this year: they want higher grades and fewer long-haired, sloppy dressers.

Placement experts say severe budgetary belt-tightening by the federal government has had the greatest impact on the job market for college graduates. With a cut of $4 billion in defense spending and $350 million knocked out of the space program, corporations aren't getting the contracts they used to. Government is hiring fewer people. And universities aren't getting research grants.

The only exception is the chemical engineer, who is in great demand. Starting salaries for him are hitting $12,400 a year. A healthy demand also is reported for specialists in the petroleum and public utilities industries.

With a vast supply of young manpower and lessening demand, employers are being choosier than ever. Standards are high for the projected 746,000 students who are expected to graduate with bachelor's degrees.

The 'you may kiss my hand' attitude is gone now, says Maurice Mayberry, placement director at the University of Florida in Gainesville. "Students who have figured on easy jobs during the past three or four years are coming to a rude awakening. Now, not only is their mode of dress changing but their practices are too. They are learning to write letters and do other traditional things of job-hunting."

Over-all, salaries on the bachelor's level are up between 5 and 7 per cent over last year, according to the College Placement Council, a nonprofit group which keeps tabs on college recruiting. The council says the average offer to technical students has risen from $819 to $861 a month; the average offer to nontechnical students from $711 to $765 a month.

Despite the waning demand in the technical fields, placement experts say demand is fairly good for law graduates, pharmacists, accountants, specialists in marketing, computer applications and finance, and teachers depending in which section of the country they are located.

Experts also say minority group graduates are in great demand.

Onteora Opens Budget Talks

BOICEVILLE: Public hearings on the proposed budget of Onteora Central Schools for 1970-71 are scheduled throughout the remainder of April, beginning today.

With the cost of living increasing in regular monthly jumps, and with area school officials disputing published state aid to education figures out of Albany, Onteora residents have been given no indication of how high the budget will come in this year.

Last year the budget peaked at $4,220,021. What this year will bring will be publicized tonight in the first of a series of five informational budget presentation hearings. This evening's session, set for 8 p. m. in the Central Building in Boiceville, is expected to attract a large crowd of interested parents and taxpayers.

Other Dates
Other hearings are slated as follows:

Bankers to Meet

The annual meeting of the Poughkeepsie Chapter, American Institute of Banking will be held May 6 at 7:30 p. m. to elect officers, committees, chairmen and board members for 1970-1971.

The new officers will be introduced at a dinner-dance hosted by the American Institute of Banking on June 6 at the Holiday Inn, Fishkill, for institute members and guests. Arrangements for this evening of entertainment are being handled by Miss Louise L. Minogue, State of New York National Bank.

April 27 at Woodstock School; April 28 at West Hurley School; April 29 at Phoenicia School; and April 30 at Bennett School in Boiceville. All meetings are at 8 p. m.

The budget is expected by most residents to show an increase over the 1969-70 figures. Confusion in the public mind over what the year will bring is compounded presently over the mathematics involved in state aid legislation recently passed in Albany.

Both Onteora's Board of Education and the school's administrative staff have said they cannot reconcile their aid figures, based on the known facts, with those released by state assembly sources.

Figures Don't Agree
Said the OCS board's legislative chairman, Richard O. Langham, this week: "The official figure given was an attractive one, but it is impossible for us to agree with the figure arrived at. Our calculations show we will receive only $185,000 at Onteora; not the $390,000 released in the press."

Had the $390,000 figure been a reality, Langham said, the present tax rate might have remained. But there is no possibility of that happening with the expected $185,000.

Langham also pointed out that school budget figures are based to a great extent on per pupil aid. He notes that in 1968, Onteora received $457.30 for each pupil, with the 1970 figure adding up to only slightly more at $470.85 per student.

What he stresses insofar as the proposed budget will be concerned is that this represents, over two years, an increase of only $13.22 or three per cent of actual aid per pupil. That's only 1 1/2 per cent per year, he hopes the public realizes, compared to a current inflation of 6 or 7 per cent a year.

Causes Budget Gap
Such a financial gap is bound to affect a school budget and

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened easier in moderate turnover today.

The news background provided little incentive for investors, although an analyst remarked "the list is approaching a point where a technical rally could be expected." Declines outnumbered advances Tuesday for the fourteenth consecutive session, with softness during that span largely the result of disappointing quarterly earnings results and the slowdown in the economy. A decline in new factory orders for durable goods last month added further to economic concern.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.10 per cent on 422 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 171 declined and 127 advanced.

at Onteora, officials feel the gift horse from Albany bears looking in the mouth—because "it has no teeth."

Onteora trustees and officials contend that the State has restored what it took away last year, and given a little bit more, but certainly not what has been indicated—and, certainly, not enough.

Onteora residents will learn the best or the worst at tonight's public budget hearing, and at the four others following this evening's first financial exploration in school monetary affairs in the coming year.

How they feel about it will be reflected during the annual school district meeting and vote on the budget May 6. Registration for that vote is set from 2 to 9 p. m. on April 30 at regular district polling places.

Living Costs Do It Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living climbed another one-half of one per cent in March, disappointing Nixon administration officials who had hoped for a slowing in the fastest rise of consumer prices in 20 years.

The Labor Department reported the gain today. However, it said that its monthly index, when adjusted for seasonal changes, rose four-tenths of one per cent.

This was a bit better than the five-tenths of one per cent seasonally adjusted increase in February and the six-tenths of one per cent rise shown in each of the three preceding months. The index climbed to 133.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That meant that it cost the average city dweller $13.32 to purchase the same assortment of goods and services he could have bought for $10.00 a little more than 10 years ago.

SENTENCED TO DEATH—Robert Kenneth Beausoleil, convicted murderer of musician Gary Hinman, leaves Los Angeles court after being sentenced to die in the gas chamber. Beausoleil claimed during his trial that Charles Manson, accused mastermind of the Tate-LaBianca murders, did the actual stabbing of Hinman. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Fire Damages Pump House

WOODSTOCK: Fire reportedly caused by a space heater resulted in minor damage to flooring of a pump house attached to a swimming pool at the Sherman residence at Lewis Hollow Tuesday afternoon, according to Fire Chief Duncan Wilson.

Company 1 with three trucks responded to a call at 1:10 p. m. and on arrival quickly extinguished the blaze. Fire units reported back in service at 1:49 p. m.

Wallkill Youths Have Date in Court

WALLKILL of Shawangunk were Bruce youths allegedly entered the Taylor of Orchard Street and residence of the Sherman family and took a television set. Two 17-year-old youths were arrested Tuesday on charges of third degree burglary in connection with a break-in at the Sherman residence last month. Taken into custody by BCI and in lieu of $2,500 bail each, Investigator Wayne Beyea of Taylor and Suo were committed Highland and Chief Constable to the county jail. According to authorities, the

Heart Lists Member Event

KEITH A. KREWSON

KINGSTON
Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, has announced that the annual membership meeting of the Association will be held Sunday, May 3, at Kozol's Restaurant, Ghent, with cocktails at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7.
The guest speaker will be Keith A. Krewson, corporate director of personnel and community relations for the Foxboro Company, Foxboro, Mass. Krewson was a cum laude scholar both as an undergraduate and graduate student at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland where he majored in Industrial Psychology. He has been cited by the American Management Association, the American Association of Industrial Management, the Society of American Management and the American Society for Training and Development because of his outstanding leadership and significant contributions toward more effective management relations. He is a past president of Toastmasters International and is noted as an inspirational and thought-provoking speaker.
The dinner also will see a number of awards presented to community individuals and organizations for their part in assisting the Mid-Hudson Heart Association carry on its expanding program of Professional Education, Public Health Education, Community Service, among others, and for the dedication of the hundreds of volunteers in enabling the Association to reach 1970 Heart Fund goals.

The numerous programs of the Heart Association and especially that of its prime function, research in the causes of cardiovascular disease, are supported by Heart Funds. Tickets to the annual membership meeting dinner are available through the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, 72 Main Street, 12401. Reservations close April 30.

Historical Meet In Washington

NEW PALTZ
Persons with a definite interest in the welfare of the Historical District (Huguenot Street) of New Paltz were well represented at the second Washington branch meeting recently held at the Hotel Washington in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hasbrouck brought an exhibit from New Paltz, which was set up at the east end of the large banquet room.

Hasbrouck gave an address which stressed the needs of today in relation to the group of houses, farm museum and bird sanctuary.

There is great need for funds from corporations to carry on the educational needs of the people who came to Huguenot Street. Staffing is vitally important. Maintenance of the grounds, displays and the introduction of the arts and crafts along with library service must be taken care of for the future. Numerous students are asking for help. On the average approximately 50 letters per week dealing with inquiries about various phases of local, county and Huguenot History must be answered," Hasbrouck said.

"The need of a living demonstration of the home crafts must be started this year. Older people would like to take part in this creative work. At New Paltz, Vassar College and in Woodstock there are skilled artisans that would be willing to teach the home crafts. At New Paltz we have many of the items necessary for people to produce the crafts, but it requires money for instructors. This year the Society is going to start the first home craft building. It will show how flax is prepared for the loom. The spinning wheel and looms will be employed," he added.

Hasbrouck stressed the fact that the Historical Society is open to all people who wish to join. The only prerequisite is interest in what has been done in New Paltz on Huguenot Street.

The members have provided the money to purchase the houses, land and other properties. New funds must be found to make all of this available for educational purposes.

Numerous brochures were given out to the guests so that they could take them to their friends, or mail them so that more people would learn about the historic area in New Paltz and the vicinity.

Little Enthusiasm Shown on Lenin's 100th Anniversary

MOSCOW (UPI)—The 100th anniversary of Vladimir I. Lenin's birth generated official enthusiasm today but little spontaneous gaiety among ordinary Russians. For them it was just another working day. Those international Communist leaders who did not get to the Kremlin Hall of Congresses podium for Tuesday's daylong session of addresses in praise of the father of the Soviet Union got an opportunity this morning.

These included President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania, a representative of President Tito of Yugoslavia and President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba. The gathering in the Kremlin's modernistic hall was the largest assembly of Communist parties ever held.

The city was decorated with red banners and on Tuesday night a giant portrait of Lenin, the hero of the 1917 Russian Revolution, swung high over Red Square suspended from a balloon in the gleam of spotlights.

After months of overpowering exhortations in the press, on radio, in the movie theaters and on television urging Soviet citizens to follow Lenin's precepts, there was little real excitement evident.

The Communist Chinese and their European ally, Albania, were not invited but there were representatives from 12 Communist nations and party representatives from 66 non-Communist countries.

Ambassadors from most of the non-Communist countries with embassies in Moscow had been invited to a Kremlin reception for the Communist delegations, but later were asked, without explanation, not to come.

Camera Club Dinner Fete

The Kingston Camera Club will hold its annual dinner on May 6, at 7:30 p.m. at Roberto's Restaurant, Port Ewen. Speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Lucie L. Ford of Dutchess County, well-known P. S. A. lecturer, who will present a series of photo essays. Awards will be made for the best color slide of the year and best black and white print of the year. All present and former members of the club, as well as other interested persons, may make reservations for the dinner by calling Mrs. Milton Cole, or Mrs. Eugene Patryk.

Another Drug Seminar Scheduled for Thursday at KHS

KINGSTON
The chief counsel to the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission in Albany will be the next speaker in the continuing program of seminars at Kingston High School designed to enlighten parents of school age children of the drug problem.

Anthony Cagliostro will speak at the KHS auditorium Thursday night, April 23 at 7:30 o'clock on the topic, The Legal Problems Involved in Drug Abuse. The continuing program of 90 seminars is being sponsored by the Adult Education Department of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated District.

Cagliostro received both his bachelor of arts and doctor of laws degrees from St. John's University in Brooklyn. He holds a master's degree in public administration from the State University of New York at Albany.

Before joining the commission, Cagliostro was an associate attorney with the New York State Department of Social Services in Albany, having been promoted to that position while serving as head of the Charities Registration Bureau.

A native of Brooklyn, Cagliostro is a professor of political science at Siena College in Loudonville, a suburb of Albany.

Other Seminars

A staff member from the Narcotic Addiction Control Commission will show films as Resource for Community Action on Thursday, April 30, also at 7:30. On Thursday, May 7, a staff member from the Commission will speak on the subject of "The Psychology of the Drug Dependent Personality and Methods of Counseling with Them."

Slated for May 14 a staff member from the Commission will speak on "Dialogue with an Ex-Addict" and on May 21, Robert Dolins, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Narcotic Education of the Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, will speak on "Education Toward the Prevention of Drug Abuse."

ANTHONY CAGLIOSTRO

"How to Form School Policy, only in Kingston, but in Lines of Administrative Policy" will be the subject for May 28, Education Department of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated is sponsoring this program. Although people have been saturated through the news media, the department feels that a serious situation exists. Parents of school age children must be made aware, they feel. There have been many tragic occurrences resulting directly, or indirectly, from the use of drugs. The Department notes by the number of arrests, not "One of the most tragic was the death of Art Linkletter's daughter this past summer, potato chips at a party in of at least four or five other persons. Recently, in a school Last week a practical joke, such California, resulted in one death.

'Road Scholars' at BOCES

NEW PALTZ
The Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services has picked its "Road Scholars" for 1970.

These are the boys who will represent Ulster County BOCES in this year's Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest, according to Michael M. Aronica, director of Vocational Education.

Competing for BOCES will be Winfred Bilyou, Highland and Gerald Wilkie, Wallkill.

They will be accompanied by Rudolph W. Brodsky, auto shop instructor at Ulster County BOCES.

The team will be sponsored by Young's Motors of Milton.

The Trouble Shooting Contest will be held at 1 p.m., May 9, at Freeport, L.I.

The winning team in the local contest will be sent to Indianapolis in June to compete against other top Trouble Shooters from all parts of the country in the National Championship Finals.

representing all 50 states — with a total auto shop enrollment of more than 150,000 students — participate each year in this nationally-famous competition.

Purpose of the contest is to recognize and honor outstanding young auto mechanic students and to encourage them to make a career as automobile mechanics.

Trouble Shooting has placed more than 16,000 young men in full or part-time jobs as auto mechanics. Since the contest became a national event in 1962, the Chrysler Plymouth Division of Chrysler Motors Corporation has made available scholarships for 146 students.

The Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest is an outstanding example of cooperation between industry and education.

NEW PALTZ

A 15-mile "Hunger Walk" is being planned by State University College students here for this Sunday morning, with sponsoring groups making volunteers walk in support of self-help projects for needy persons.

New Paltz Area

Lead by Miss Joyce Lieberman, an undergraduate at the New Paltz College, volunteers will walk through the New Paltz area and sponsoring organizations will pay a set amount of money for each mile a person travels.

Miss Lieberman said proceeds of the walk will go to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation "for a wide variety of self-help projects for needy families," both in America and overseas.

Support for the project, she said, has been given by town and village officials as well as college faculty and administration, many of whom are expected to take part.

The walks will begin at 9 a.m. after registration at the village firehouse near the campus.

One sponsoring group, New Paltz Lions Club, has agreed to pay $1 for each mile that a club member walks Sunday, said the coed.

Plans for the Hunger Walk are formulated by the College Community Council, consists of representatives of the town and village boards, the planning boards of both governments, the college administration and the student government association.

Blanket Endorsement

As a result, she said, the Hunger Walk has the endorsement of the entire membership of both boards and the college.

"The main idea behind the contributions," she said, "is to enable poor persons to help themselves." She noted that the proceeds goes to "many" self-help programs, "rather than for mere food handouts."

New School Causing Concern for Woodstock Residents

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK Association expressed concern over the new Zena Elementary School opening in the fall of this year, called for "thought and preparation" on the part of the town.

Of vital concern, they feel, is the fact that between 150 and 200 small children will be walking along sections of Vandale and Zena Roads for the first time. And surveys show they will be walking to school during peak hours of business travel along the roads.

Want Road Widened

To insure their safety, the Zena Homeowners Association has asked the town board's help in seeing that the now curved and narrow Vandale Road between Vandebogart and Zena Roads be widened and straightened along a 1,000 foot section. The Association has also requested that the town provide a school crossing guard at the four corners where the Thais general store is located.

Other suggestions by the Association include a berm path accessible to snowplows in order to properly channel youngsters from Vandale Road to the crossing, and the installation of appropriate "SCHOOL" signs or flasher lights along the Sawkill Road before the school entrance.

Supervisor Milton Houst assured association president Peter DuFresne that the board will work hand-in-hand with the Ulster County Highway Department to solve the problems posed by the dangerous situation created by narrow turns: will definitely provide a constable to cover the crossing. Superintendent of Highways William Klementis will shortly begin the process of acquiring the property needed to widen the road.

Tax Map and Reappraisal
The response to a recent petition from more than 300 Woodstockers urging the town board to "pressure" the Ulster County Legislature for a countywide real property reappraisal and tax map, has yet to receive such a cooperative response. The town board has consistently demurred from putting itself on record with the legislature as favoring the proposal of the petitioners. It did, however, refer the petition to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock).

Bell has advised the board by letter that he feels a tax map and reappraisal are "very complex and involved problems."

He maintains that any town or municipality "would require a substantial increase in local taxes" to do the job. And he maintains, even more strongly, that the State "should assume the responsibility," with local communities bearing only the maintenance costs.

Said Bell in his letter to the board: "I do not want to see our taxpayers suddenly hit with substantial taxes to fund this type of program."

Suggests Bell: "We always wait for the State to act; that come back to the same old question—money."

His theories, however, are diametrically opposed to those of the Woodstock petitioners during the four years the point of their petition was program has languished in that taxpayers can no longer committees.

Murderer Faces Assault Charge In Dutchess

POUGHKEEPSIE
An 18-year-old convicted murderer faces a second degree charge in connection with an assault Tuesday in the Dutchess County Jail which seriously injured the head jailer John Farmer, according to Chief Detective Charles Borchers.

Larry Gibson, the accused assailant, was in the jail awaiting sentencing next Wednesday following his conviction for the murder of Thomas Kirk Sr., in the latter's tavern on Main Street last June 29. Gibson was accused of shooting the victim to death during an argument.

Borchers said Farmer was taken to Vassar Hospital after being attacked by the prisoner, and treated for a fractured nose and chest injuries. Farmer was released after treatment.

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan said the assault case will be turned over to the district attorney's office for investigation by the grand jury.

Authorities gave no reason for the incident yesterday. Gibson was convicted by a county court jury on April 11 of the shotgun slaying of Kirk.

Cars Break Loose

HYDERABAD, India (UPI) — A 30-car section of a freight train loaded with stone and cement broke loose from an engine Monday and hurtled six miles down the track, running down and killing a trainman.

Railway switchmen diverted the runaway cars to a siding in time to avoid a collision with the Bombay Secunderabad Express passenger train.

Celebrates Legend

ROME (UPI) — The city of Rome celebrated what legend calls its 2,723rd birthday Tuesday with an arts festival and political speeches.

Mayor Clelio Darida said "All the contradictions of the modern world meet here. This true capital of the Western world is a symbol of an Italy that is changing for the better."

According to legend, the twins Romulus and Remus founded Rome on April 21, 754 B. C.

The Community Concert Association of Kingston held its annual tea for captains and workers on Sunday at 3 in Bethany Hall, Old Dutch Church. The tea launches the current subscription campaign for the upcoming 1970-71 concert season which will include the New Orleans Symphony with Regis Pasquier, violinist, the Columbia Operatic Trio and Spain's royal family of the guitar — The Romeros.

John A. McCullough, president of the Association, greeted the captains, workers and guests and introduced the board officers: John Hill, vice president; Mrs. William E. Ryland, second vice president; Mrs. C. B. Glowienka, third vice president; Howard Stephens, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Seitz, membership secretary; Mrs. James Gaddis, recording secretary; and Mrs. John McCullough, publicity director. Mrs. Ryland and Mrs. Vincent P. Berardi are campaign co-chairmen.

Named area captains for the subscription campaign were: Kenneth Baumgartner, New Paltz; Mrs. Leroy Atwater, Tannersville-Hunter; Mrs. Jack Citroen and Mrs. Charles Talleur, Woodstock; Miss Barbara Genthner, Saugerties-Mt. Marion; Mrs. C.B. Glowienka, Mrs. Peter Oakhill, Red Hook Rhinebeck; Mrs. Ernest Jansen, High Falls-Rosendale.

Also Robert Palmatier, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Robert Scherer, Port Ewen; Mrs. Charles Selzo, Hurley; Mrs. Vincent P. Berardi, Mrs. John Crews, Miss Anne Goldrick, Mrs. Ralph Harper, John Hill, Miss Mary Keresman, Mrs. Henry Millonig Sr., Mrs. William Ryland and Mrs. George Wer., Kingston.

CAMPAIGN PLANS are discussed by (L-R) Mrs. John Crews, one of the Kingston Captains and former board member, with Mrs. Bill Skilling of Kingston and Eugene Cusatis of Saugerties. The tea launched this year's subscription campaign. Campaign headquarters will be in the Civic Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel from May 4-9. Both renewal and new subscriptions are now available. (Freeman photo by Haines).

'Dressing by Design' Course Offered: UCCC

A five-week "Dressing by Design" course will open on Thursday, April 30, at 8 p.m. at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College, Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

The course will continue for four succeeding Thursday nights, ending on May 28.

April 23 is the deadline for class registrations.

The course instructor will be Mrs. Louis K. Breitung, who is an extension home economist with the Home Economics Division of the Ulster County Extension Service. A graduate of Russell Sage College, she has done graduate work in textiles and clothing at the University of Rhode Island and is heard each week over Radio Stations WKNY and WGHQ with a program of interest to homemakers.

The non-credit course has the aim of helping women to improve their appearance, an it will deal with clothing selection.

As part of the course, five half-hour films will be shown. They were produced by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of California and were used there as a television short course in which 23,000 persons were enrolled.

Each film will be followed by an activity period of approximately an hour and a half. The goal of the activity period will be to give each woman attending a true conception of herself.

Further information about the course can be obtained by calling or writing the Office of Continuing Education at the College (687-7261).

Beekman Chapter 496
A regular meeting of Beekman Chapter 496, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held Friday, April 24 at 8 p.m. in the Rhinebeck Masonic Temple. All members are urged to attend. Master Masons are invited.

Special Benefit Concert Slated For New Paltz Saturday Afternoon

An all Bach program will be presented when the Monteux Chamber Players perform a special concert Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at the Academy Theatre in New Paltz.

The Chamber Players, composed of members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, will be conducted by Philharmonic music director Claude Monteux and first cellist Luis Garcia Renart.

Garcia-Renart will conduct the Double Violin Concerto, with Linda Cumiskey and Ellen Stenger featured in the solo parts and will also lead the Brandenburg Concerto to No. 4 for two flutes and violin, with Monteux, Mary Monteux and Leon Sayvetz as the soloists.

Violinist Karen Girko and harpsichordist Sylvia Suzowsky will join Monteux and Garcia Renart in the Sonata a Tre for flute, violin and continuo from "The Musical Offering."

The concert will open with the Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, which will be conducted by Monteux.

The program is another in the series of special activities planned to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra's continuing growth.

Sing-Out Saugerties to Entertain at Mother-Daughter Dinner

MOTHER-DAUGHTER DINNER arrangements are being made by (L-R) Mrs. Victor Stockwell, reservation committee; Mrs. H. VanWyck Darrow, dinner chairman; and Mrs. Richard Ruth, reservations, committee. The event is scheduled to take place Tuesday evening, May 5 at 6:30 p. m. at Hurley Reformed Church Hall. Sing-Out Saugerties, the local Up With People group, will entertain. Reservations are being taken through Tuesday, April 28. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Sing-Out Saugerties, the local Up With People group, will be the featured program at the annual Mother-Daughter dinner at the Hurley Reformed Church hall, Tuesday evening, May 5 at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow, dinner chairman, is pleased to have this group of 135 young men and women present their talent in the first performance of this kind in the Hurley area. David Keehn of Saugerties is director of Sing-Out Saugerties, which will present the same infectious enthusiasm and youthful freshness as audiences applauded in the original Up With People performance. Because of the appeal of their songs and other musical numbers, a special invitation is being issued to the church Young People's group to attend for the evening's presentation following the dinner.

"If you have been to Sing-Out once, you'll want to go again, and if you have never seen and heard one, you have a real treat in store for you on May 5," says Mrs. Darrow, "showing our young people taking some positive steps about our world today."

The theme of the dinner will be flower-filled May baskets, each table featuring a different floral color. Novel seating arrangement is promised for those attending. Another feature being planned is a photo booth, where instant photos will be taken of mothers, daughters, grandparents, as a keepsake of the evening.

Reservations for adults and children are being taken through Tuesday, April 28, by Mrs. Richard Ruth and Mrs. Victor Stockwell, reservations committee co-chairmen.

Other committee chairmen are: Mrs. Allen Dumas, hospitality; Mrs. John Lupton and Mrs. Albert Byrne, stage production; Mrs. Alexander Plonsky, table decorations; Mrs. Curt Voiglander, church publicity; Mrs. James Woodard, desserts.

Guest Square Dance Caller Announced for Friday Dance

RUFUS ALDRIDGE (Olive Studio)

Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club will feature guest caller, Rufus Aldridge, at its Friday dance at Hurley Reformed Church hall, off Route 209, at 8:30 p.m.

Rufus, who has been calling for ten years, began this hobby four months after he and his wife, Nancy, started square dancing in Evansville, Ind. After moving to New England, Rufus became a club caller for three clubs there, while continuing to be guest call in the Midwest, where he frequently traveled. His square dance resume also includes calling at two national conventions, and calling at conventions in Chicago, Indianapolis, and others.

Currently, he is calling for three clubs near home in Franklin, Mass., and guest calling all over New England, New York, and New Jersey. He and his wife, Nancy, have two daughters and one son, who is now serving in the Armed Forces.

All club level dancers are invited.

OCS Will Permit Love Sets for Girl Tennis Players

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
CHARLES J. TIANO

When the question of "tennis, anyone?" comes up at Ontario High School these days, it includes anyone. As of Monday night, via permission of the Board of Education, the varsity tennis team is going co-educational at Ontario.

Ontoera girls, armed with racquets and cannonball serves, will take to the court to participate on the boys' interscholastic tennis team.

The feminine counterparts to Bill Tilden and Arthur Ashe may cause consternation in the Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL), but they will definitely compete on the varsity tennis team — if they can beat any of the boys out for team positions.

Six OCS girls — two seniors, one junior and three sophomores — petitioned the school's tennis coach Willis Witter to be allowed to participate on the boys' team.

Everybody Approves

In short order, this hardy band of sports pioneers gained the approval of both the coach and the superintendent of schools, Dr. Harold Snyder. They had the backing, too, of the State Education Department, which authorized an experimental project to ascertain the effects of girls participating on boys' interscholastic in selected non-contact activities. The statewide project is to run through June of this year.

At a meeting of the Ontario Board of Education at the West Hurley school, high school principal John E. Stefano asked permission from the board to authorize the participation of girls on the boys' varsity tennis team, along with the application for the approval to participate in the state project. The board gave its blessing by a vote of 7 to 1.

The only trustee to cast a dissenting vote was Donald Gross. He explained his no vote by saying he was acting "just on principle."

Get Parents' Permission

The six girls involved have obtained the required parental permission to oppose male opponents across the nets. And Ontario is able to cover all conditions and procedures for the application, as well as the guideline.

The girls who are fortunate enough to "make the team" will dress and shower in their own facilities. They will receive medical examinations at the start of the practice sessions and at the end of the season. They also will be overseen at all trips by a woman member of the school staff.

Both Ontario and the State Education Department point out that the rapidly increasing opportunities for girls interested in athletic competition in recent years "is significant of changing mores."

They note that vastly improved school physical education programs, coupled with increased opportunities for girls to engage in athletic activities through other public and private means have "greatly enhanced the athletic abilities of girls." And they add that the "very exceptional, highly talented girl" cannot always find the challenge or equality of competition from other girls.

Breakthrough at Monroe

The first breakthrough in the Hudson Valley came during the past winter when a girl at Monroe High School was granted permission to try out for the boys varsity swim team. She made the team, won her first match and several after that.

Full varsity status has been granted to all girls teams at Kingston High and Ontario itself, but girls trying to make a boys varsity is something new for the Kingston area.

keeping girls off boys teams have been challenged for validity and on the basis of sex discrimination. And others besides the Women's Liberation Front have pooh-poohed the idea that it is not yet socially acceptable for a girl to defeat a boy in athletic competition.

Medical experts, however, have insisted that there is no medical reason to prohibit girls from competing on boys teams in such non-contact sports as tennis, golf, swimming, bowling and pistol and rifle shooting.

Can Handle Themselves

Advancing the competition to the man and woman level, any observer who has ever watched females outshine their opponents in mixed bowling, rifle and golf events know what a job a talented woman athlete can do on her male counterparts.

And, so, at Ontario Central, the brave lassies are ready, willing and eager to serve and return with the best competition has to offer. And perfect love sets are highly desirable and strictly legal!

And, in the doing, Ontario pioneers will be participating in a project to establish a valid position on whether or not girls should be permitted to participate on boys interscholastic varsity athletic teams.

Will Be the Yardstick

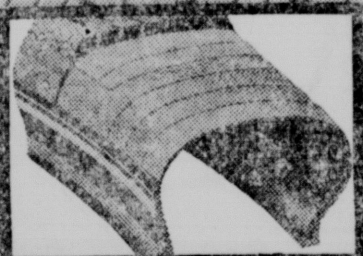

While the project in neither an endorsement nor a promotion, by the State Education Department of boy-girl competition the data gathered in this project will be used to determine whether or not this type of competition is desirable and should or should not be permitted in the future.

The general trend toward all-girls varsity teams in non-contact sports will in the end probably blunt any wholesale invasion of the traditionally all-male domain of varsity athletics by aspiring and talented girl athletes.

It is not likely that any stand-out girl athlete would cast her lot with the boys varsity at a school where there is a girls varsity in the same sport. Better to be the big fish in a little pond than the little fish in the big pond. Only the most ambitious lassie could be expected to strive for the latter. Rumor has it around Ontario Central that the girls who plan to go out for the tennis team are good—very good in point of fact and, if there's consternation in the UCAL today, it could turn to admiration by June.

TRADE FIGURES — Oscar Robertson (L) playmaking guard of the Cincinnati Royals of the NBA has been traded to the Milwaukee Bucks for Flynn Robinson (R) and Charlie Paulk (not shown). The deal for the 31-year-old perennial All Star was completed just after the Bucks had been eliminated from the NBA playoffs by the New York Knicks. (UPI FILE PHOTOS).

Bucks Now Have 'Big A' and 'Big O'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks are one down to the Los Angeles Lakers, but the tandem of the "Big A" and the "Big O" could put them one up on the National Basketball Association next year.

The "Big A" is Lew Alcindor, the NBA's rookie of the year and the player who led the two-year-old Bucks into the Eastern Division playoff finals before falling to the New York Knicks.

The "Big O" is Oscar Robertson, the 6-foot-5 superstar the Bucks picked up Tuesday from the Cincinnati Royals in a trade for guard Flynn Robinson and 6-8 forward Charlie Paulk.

The trade gives the Bucks two superstars, only one less than the Lakers have with Wilt Chamberlain, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor.

"Oscar's a leader," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said of Robertson. "He will stabilize our young team and make Lew a better basketball player."

One of the highest paid players in the NBA, Robertson will reportedly make $175,000 a year on a three-year contract with a two-year option renewal with the Bucks. At Cincinnati, he was believed to have received $125,000 a year.

Milwaukee completed the trade for Robertson the day after the Bucks lost to the New York Knicks in the Eastern Division playoff finals, four games to one.

The Milwaukee transaction was actually the second time this season that the Royals have traded Robertson. Earlier, Cincinnati apparently completed a deal with the Baltimore Bullets for Gus Johnson.

But Robertson invoked a clause in his contract which allowed him to approve a trade and rejected going to Baltimore.

When the season ended, Robertson said he would not return to the Royals next season. Other teams interested in the 10-time All-Pro guard were the New York Knicks, Phoenix Suns and San Diego Rockets of the NBA and the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association.

One of the nation's most sought-after players when he graduated from Crispus Attucks High School in Indianapolis, Ind., Robertson went to the University of Cincinnati where he was a three-time All-American and set a varsity career scoring record that stood until this season when it was broken by Louisiana State's Pete Maravich.

He has been among the NBA leaders in scoring, assists and rebounding since he joined the Royals in the 1960-61 season. Despite missing 13 games this past season, he averaged 25.3 points a game with a 51 percent shooting average, had 622 rebounds and 555 assists.

"We obviously feel that we are adding considerable strength and potential to a young and rebuilding team," said Bob Cousy, Royals coach, of acquiring Paulk and Robinson.

This year, Robinson, a 6-1 former Wyoming star, averaged 21.8 points a game for Milwaukee.

Paulk, 23, was the Bucks' first round draft choice two years ago. He played in only 16 games with Milwaukee in the 1968-69 season before being drafted. He now is in Vietnam but is expected to be discharged before the Royals start their fall practice.

Bruins and Blues Are Leading by Two

(By The Associated Press)

The Boston Bruins are singing "Chicago, Chicago, it's a wonderful town" and the Pittsburgh Penguins are wailing "The St. Louis Blues" after the first two games of the Stanley Cup semifinals in the National Hockey League.

The Bruins headed home to Boston Garden today with a 2-0 lead in their best-of-7 Eastern Division series with the Chicago Black Hawks. The Penguins are en route to Pittsburgh trailing St. Louis 2-0 in the West.

Boston, with Bobby Orr's brilliance again providing the difference, defeated the Hawks 4-1 Tuesday night while the Blues downed the Penguins by the same score.

Orr, the magnificent 22-year-old defenseman who led the NHL in scoring for the regular season got his first goal of the year against Chicago and started the Bruins on the road to victory. He had a total of three points, all assists, against the Hawks in eight regular season games. With two assists in Sunday's first game and Tuesday night's goal, Orr's matched his regular season production in opening faceoff and the Blues had the first goal in 31 seconds.

"I figured that he'd lose the game because of it, and he did," said St. Louis coach Scotty Bowman.

The Black Hawks shifted veteran Bobby Hull from right wing to center during the early going in an attempt to confuse the Boston defense. It didn't. Chicago managed only 13 shots on goal in the first two periods.

Phil Esposito of the Bruins leading scorer in last year's Stanley Cup series and the No. 2 pointmaker behind teammate Orr in the regular campaign, got his 10th goal of the playoffs slashing the puck past his younger brother Tony, the Hawk goalie, at 5:02 of the final period.

Phil is two goals shy of the Stanley Cup record jointly owned by Maurice Richard, 1944, and Jean Beliveau, 1956, both of Montreal.

Pittsburgh Coach Red Kelly made some unexpected shifts, and he wasn't anymore successful than Chicago's Billy Reay. Kelly put defenseman Tracy Pratt and Dunc McCallum at the wings for the regular season production in opening faceoff and the Blues had the first goal in 31 seconds.

"I figured that he'd lose the game because of it, and he did," said St. Louis coach Scotty Bowman.

Ab McDonald of St. Louis tied a Stanley Cup record with assists on all three first period Blues' goals. He upped his point total for the playoffs to 13, the same number Orr has and one shy of Esposito's total.

Pittsburgh only made five shots on goal during the first period and this angered Kelly. "I've never seen the puck go into the net yet if you don't shoot it," he snorted. "All year long we were shooting the puck. Now, all of a sudden, we don't want to."

Bowman said the pressure is on Pittsburgh now. "They have to win two at home to have a chance."

And there's even more pressure on the Black Hawks. The team which won the regular season championship in the NHL East must win at least once on the road or the Bruins will be virtually assured of their first Stanley Cup since 1941.

Meador and Lundy Are Among Missing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Eddie Meador, the Los Angeles Rams' all-time pass interception leader with 44, and 13-year defensive end Lamar Lundy won't be back with the National Football League club next season.

Meador, 32, announced his retirement Tuesday and the Rams traded the 35-year-old Lundy to the San Diego Chargers for an undisclosed draft choice.

"You can't replace Eddie Meador," Los Angeles coach George Allen said. "I only hope that he changes his mind."

Allen flew to Texas Sunday in an effort to persuade Meador, an 11-year pro, to return next season.

Meador recently was elected senior vice president of the LSI Corp., a holding company for Lifetime Security Life Insurance in Denton, Tex., near Dallas.

"It's an opportunity of a lifetime," the Rams' safetyman said. "It's impossible to turn down (the vice presidency) and it requires fulltime involvement. I've enjoyed my 11 years in Los Angeles and it was a difficult decision to make."

The loss of Meador, a unanimous all-NFL pro in 1969 who returned five of his 44 interceptions for touchdowns, also a Ram record, is a major blow to last season's Coastal Division champions.

Ten-year linebacker Maxie Baughan earlier announced his retirement.

Meador was drafted seventh by the Rams in 1959 from Arkansas Tech. Twenty-four of his interceptions came in the past four years.

Lundy, an original member of the Rams' "Fearsome Foursome," was with Los Angeles longer than any other player in history. Knee and leg injuries caused him to miss most of the past two seasons.

Solaita Is Still Doing His Thing for Syracuse

Tony Solaita is still doing his thing. The husky 6-foot, 222-pound first baseman for the Syracuse Chiefs hit his team's first 1970 home run Tuesday night, a grand slammer in the third inning, and paced the undefeated Chiefs to a 4-2 triumph over the Columbus Jets.

Home Runs are Solaita's specialty. In 1968, the 23-year-old native of Samoa slammed 51 homers for High Point, N.C., of the Carolina League and was the Minor League's Player of the Year. The New York Yankees were so impressed by the then 21-year-old phenom that they brought him up to the majors at the end of the season.

In other International League action, Rochester trimmed Louisville, 6-1; Toledo blanked Tidewater, 5-0; and Richmond walloped Buffalo, 10-4.

Kaline Shows the Rookies

(By The Associated Press) A slick pair of Tiger rookies supplied the batting punch but it was old pro Al Kaline who softened up and then delivered the knockout blow in Detroit's latest victory.

The East Division leading Tigers, rallied for two ninth-inning runs, nipping Cleveland 5-3 Tuesday night to run their winning streak to six.

In other American League contests, Washington stopped New York 7-5, Minnesota topped Chicago 4-3, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 4-3 and California downed Milwaukee 3-1.

The Tigers entered the top of the ninth inning tied at 3-3 but went to the front as rookie third baseman Elliott Maddox stroked a single and two outs later Cesar Gutierrez, a first-year shortstop obtained last year from San Francisco, drilled a run scoring double. Kaline put the finishing touch on the rally with a RBI single.

Kaline, the 35-year-old right fielder, in his 18th major league season, had kept the score even in the eighth inning, with a sensational, leaping catch at the fence, robbing Ted Uhlaender of a home run.

In the fourth inning, Maddox' first major league hit—a single—had tied the game, capping a three-run inning. Kaline triggered the rally with a single.

A two-out error by Yankees shortstop Gene Michael, followed by Bernie Allen's three-run homer, put the Senators in front to stay at 5-3.

Casey Cox went 7-13 in his third triumph without a loss while New York ace Mel Stottlemyre, rapped for 11 hits in six innings, took his third defeat. He has yet to win. Lee Maye stroked four hits for the Senators and scored four runs. Danny Carter drilled three hits for the Yankees.

Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer in the sixth inning provided the Twins with their winning margin. It was Killebrew's second of the season and 448th of his career. He also scored his 999th career run. White Sox starter Tommy John absorbed his fourth loss of the young season.

Don Mincher rapped a two-run homer in the eighth inning, giving the A's their victory after helping the Royals take a 3-2 edge earlier in the inning with a throwing error.

Mincher, the big first baseman obtained during the winter from California, scooped up Ed Kirkpatrick's sacrifice bunt and fired wildly into left field at-tempting to nail Pat Kelly at third.

Kelly scored to put the Royals ahead 3-2 but Mincher made up for his miscue with his 420-foot clout over the center field fence. It was his fourth homer of the season.

Reggie Jackson also rapped a two-run shot for the A's. It was Jackson's third season.

Tom Murphy, 2-1, with ninth-inning relief help, scattered three hits, striking out three and walking three and opened the decisive three-run third inning for the Angels with a single.

The Angels' triumph kept them in a first-place tie in the West while the Brewers were losing their sixth consecutive game.

After Murphy singled, Sandy Alomar walked and both runners moved up on a ground out. Run-scoring singles by Bill Voss and Alex Johnson drove in two runs and Jay Johnstone knocked in the third tally with a double.

Reds Leave Atlanta in Shambles

(By The Associated Press) The Red Menace has gone with the wind, leaving Atlanta in a shambles and Phil Niekro in a state of shock.

Cincinnati's rampaging Reds tagged Niekro for four of their seven home runs Tuesday night and thumped the bedazzled Braves 13-8 to go 4½ games ahead of the pack in the National League West.

"If Cincinnati is this good," mused Braves Manager Luman Harris, "they can just go on to the World Series."

Only three weeks having gone in the regular season, the Reds will go on instead to St. Louis—after today's open date —with a 13-4 season mark and 30 home runs, the last 10 of them in two victories at Atlanta.

The Braves, meanwhile, will spend an off-day pondering the wreckage of a 2-6 homestand that has dropped them into the West Division cellar.

In Tuesday's other NL action,

Pittsburgh outlasted Houston 9-8; the Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis 7-4 and San Diego tripped the New York Mets 5-3. Rain washed out the Los Angeles Montreal and San Francisco Philadelphia games.

Tony Perez, the majors' hottest hitter, crashed his eighth homer and three singles to pace the Reds' 17-hit assault against Niekro, 0-4, and four Atlanta relievers. Rookie Bernie Carbo slammed two homers and Johnny Bench, Bob Tolan, Pete Rose and rookie Dave Concepcion hit one apiece.

Atlanta homers by Rico Car-ty, Orlando Cepeda and Felix

Millan brought the two clubs within one of the single game National League record.

"I'm hanging too many," said Niekro, the knuckleball artist who won 23 for the Braves last season but carries a 7.77 earned run average after four starts this spring and has been the victim of 11 homers in 24 1/3 innings. "They're waiting, and it's jumping out."

Perez' 4-for-5 night boosted his batting average to .484, tops in both leagues. The Cincinnati third baseman also is setting the pace in home runs, RBIs (22) and hits (30).

Roberto Clemente's first homer of the year capped a five-run flurry in the sixth inning, sending the Pirates ahead 9-4, and they hung on to shade Houston. Jim Wynn delivered five runs for the Astros with a bases-loaded double and his fourth homer.

Billy Williams' three-run homer and Johnny Callison's two-run blast, both off Bob Gibson in the seventh inning, carried the Cubs past the Cardinals to their sixth straight victory. The homers were the first of the season off St. Louis pitching.

San Diego, beaten 11 straight times by the Mets, scored twice in the ninth to snap a 3-3 dead-lock, Clarence Gaston knocking in the go-ahead run when center fielder Tommie Agee misjudged his liner and it fell for a double. Nate Colbert hit his sixth homer for the Padres.

HOME SAFELY — Umpire Arthur Frantz calls Lee Maye of the Senators safe at the plate as he scores on Bernie Allen's hit in fourth inning. Yankee catcher is Jake Gibbs. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Dear Abby

Wants Both Wives!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Both my wives read your column. I have just been offered a promotion to a top job in our Honolulu office. Policy dictates that either I take the job or resign.

For 25 years I have been in charge of two offices, one in Fort Worth and the other in Houston, alternating weekly. I have a wife in each town, support two families, and put two sets of children thru school.

If I were to resign, it would hurt everybody. I cannot, and will not, decide between either of my wives. What should I do? Please hurry, Abby. I haven't much time.

DEAR TROUBLED: Keep one family in Hilo and the other in Oahu. And buy all the volcano insurance you can get.

DEAR ABBY: Will you help us get the message across to our 15-year-old daughter that it looks bad for young people to put on a show of affection in public? I want to crawl in a hole when I see my daughter walking down the street with her boyfriend. She is hanging on him, or their arms are around each other's waists, and they even stop to kiss right on the street!

When they are in the car together, she is practically sitting on his lap. And when they are indoors, it's the same picture.

Abby, I know young people are attracted to each other, and I am not saying there is anything wrong with honest emotions, but please tell young people to keep their hands off each other in public!

OLD FASHIONED: Hello, young lovers (wherever you are) and this goes for the older lovers, too.

All the world may love a lover, but it's poor taste to act out the role in public. A boy who respects a girl will keep his hands off her in public, and a girl who respects herself, will make sure he does.

DEAR ABBY: I am 69 years of age, a buddhist missionary and a private teacher of English. German and the violin here in Bangkok. I came here from Germany 38 years ago, and during that time I have had no chance to satisfy my refined and spiritual love hunger — the reason being that I am two-thirds bald.

The Thai women do not like bald-headed lovers, and the western women find other excuses. German women never demanded hair on their men. Can you help me while there is still time!

BALD-HEADED IN BANGKOK: Either get yourself a hair piece, or head for Germany and find a woman there who will satisfy your refined and spiritual hunger — while there is still time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ARIES AND CAPRICORN": Thank your lucky stars! It's better to have loved and lost than to have hated and won.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it of your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

(Hear Dear Abby at 9:10 a.m. Mon thru Sat. WKNY-1490)

Carroll Righter's Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't let your emotions or any persons lead you into acting hastily in making changes that are very much on your mind. Find out just where you do stand with others. Obtain more information you need to arrive at a sensible judgment.

Prejudices may run riot so control them sternly.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) You have many responsibilities but make sure you know which are the most important and take care of those first. Show devotion to mate. Do whatever will please this important individual in your life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you do not sever relations with an associate because you do not understand the situation properly. Don't lose your temper over some trivial problem. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Adopt a cheerful attitude toward your work instead of feeling imposed upon. Plan some time for updating your wardrobe and improving your health. Be smart.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Once you get important work done, you have time for the pleasures that appeal to you. Don't let a careless remark of another hurt you deeply. Show that you can rise above such nonsense.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid making a big issue of some small matter that could cause unnecessary friction at home. Be amused over the situation instead. Find the right way to have greater harmony at home, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to be very careful or you get into accidents or have arguments with others that are avoidable. Study reports well and make necessary changes so that you eliminate errors. Be wise, clever.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are tempted while in an angry moment to get rid of possessions or to spend money foolishly, so get a hold on yourself. That business adviser is not thinking straight right now. Go out for a good time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Using self-control is very important now when things are apt to be tense around you. Don't commit yourself to anything definite right now. Use good judgment in all things and you come out just fine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Personal problems seem unbearable, but if you are objective in your thinking and acting, you find all eases up. Be of assistance to one who is having real trouble. Show that you really care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to be most thoughtful with kind friends and show you will support them to the limit. Avoid the social as much as you can. Work alone at your finest aims and make headway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many fine ideas how to gain the support of higher-ups that you sorely need, but be sure you are so demanding. Use that diplomacy for which you are so famous. Some special aim can be realized.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find the interest that appeal to you most but be sure you really want them in your future life. Don't argue with one whose thinking is quite different to your own. Be diplomatic instead.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very impetuous youngsters who will always have many plans and will fight to get his or her own way. Teach this child that there has to be a spirit of cooperation in order to gain right results. A career that requires investigation is fine here. The mind will also be challenged by things that are mysterious and unusual. Be sure to give a good academic training for real success.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TWIN TRAGEDY: (Q.) I am hooked on dope, the kind you take with a needle in your arm. That's not all. I'm pregnant, too. I can't hide it much longer.

My boy friend doesn't know. I keep giving him excuses to stay away. My parents don't know either. Please help me. I'm 16 and in the tenth grade.—Help (1) in Philadelphia.

(A.) You need to be under a doctor's care right now. Tell your parents and boy friend immediately, so necessary plans can be made and necessary measures taken.

I hope other girls who may be sliding downhill will read your letter and get a message.

REJECTED: (Q.) I am an average high-school senior. I'm tall and not bad looking. I take part in school activities and go places that girls go. I have an "A" average, but with girls I flunk out.

This year I've been turned down for dates more than 20 times. Not a single girl has said yes. Some gave excuses that were pure lies. I've asked all kinds of girls—shy ones, pretty ones, plain ones, you name it.

I use mouthwash and deodorant daily. Do you know why girls won't go out with me?—No Dates in New York City.

(A.) You may be asking girls you don't really know and who don't really know you.

You may be asking them too soon.

Pick out a girl you have met at school, a girl you have talked to, a girl who has smiled at you and seemed friendly.

Call her on the telephone and talk to her five or 10 minutes. But don't ask her for a date. If she is friendly, call her again in about a week and talk to her briefly, but do not ask her for a date.

If she is still friendly, call her a third time in about a week and ask her for a date.

If she says no, start the process over again with another girl.

Next Moon Crews Get Astro Data Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Having given the nation a dramatic tale of a fight for survival a quarter of a million miles away from earth, Apollo 13's astronauts today describe to the next moonflight crew how they made it back.

James A. Lovell, John L. Swigert and Fred W. Haise told a national television audience Tuesday night they didn't know what happened when an explosion ripped their spacecraft as it sped toward the moon, but that it rapidly became obvious they were in very serious trouble.

A loud bang and a shuddering vibration started the 87-hour struggle that riveted the attention of the world on outer space. Swigert said the safe return was an answer to prayer.

"If you're asking me whether I prayed, I certainly did," he told one questioner. "And I have no doubt that perhaps my prayers and the prayers of the rest of the people did an awful lot, contributed an awful lot for us getting back."

"You Just Keep Going"

"Our survival," said Lovell, "became one of initiative and ingenuity. In a situation like that there's only one thing you can do—you just keep going."

The meeting with newsmen was unusual because it came after only the second day of a detailed two-week debriefing instead of at its end. The pilots will interrupt it again Friday to discuss the failure before the Senate Space Committee in Washington.

The three astronauts today scheduled a meeting with Apollo 14 astronauts Alan B. Shepard, Edgar D. Mitchell and Alfred M. Worden and most of the rest of the astronaut corps. They were to discuss the worst emergency Americans ever have encountered in space.

While Lovell, Swigert and Haise reported on their space drama, the board of inquiry investigating the failure held its first meeting in a nearby building at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Appears Well Rested

Lovell, appearing well-rested and at ease before more than 100 reporters, said he had no idea what caused the rupture of one of the two high pressure oxygen tanks on Apollo 13's service module.

"It's unique that we were only a few feet from the accident but the people on the ground had a lot more information via telemetry concerning pressures and temperatures and possible causes of the accident and perhaps a better indication right now than we do of exactly what caused it."

The investigating board was relying to a great extent on this data to piece together the events that led to the explosion. The panelists hope to fix the blame and recommend corrective actions in three or four weeks.

Lovell had said before the April 11 blastoff from Cape

Kennedy Apollo 13 was his fourth and last spaceflight. But he said Tuesday night he would go again if the space agency thought his crew should try and repeat the mission.

Increases Confidence

Asked whether he wanted to fly again in space, Swigert said:

"I think that what this has done for me, if anything, has increased my confidence in the ability of this nation's space program to take an unusual situation and react to it and come out with a successful conclusion."

"I consider recovery of a crew a successful conclusion," said Swigert. His first flight in space was as a last-minute substitute for Thomas K. Mattingly, who doctors feared would contract German measles last week. He still is healthy.

Haise said he has worked with the space agency for 15 years as a test pilot and "I don't figure to retire for another 30 maybe, so I'll just do whatever job the agency decides that is the best place I can be and contribute the most."

A SINKING FEELING—Two Arlington, Va., window washers dangled 100 feet in the air for 30 minutes Tuesday, when their scaffolding broke as they washed windows on the 11th floor of a building. Both were rescued by fire department aerial ladder. The second to be rescued is shown clinging to the scaffolding (L) and about to climb down the ladder (R). (UPI TELEPHOTO).

On College Disorders Legislature--Hands Off

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The "active" action by the state government, under pressure to get tough with disruptive college students, refused to be provoked into an overreaction and reaffirmed the responsibility of individual schools to deal with unrest on their campuses.

The academic community was concerned about two bills in particular. One would have required colleges and universities that receive any state aid to suspend students convicted in the courts of various acts occurring on campus property.

The other would have authorized three or more students to seek injunctive relief against "breaches" of the penal law or college rules related to the maintenance of order.

Both measures were passed overwhelmingly in the Assembly but died in Senate committees.

Part of the explanation for the legislature's refusal to give the bills final passage is that some legislators had come to sense that hard-core radicals on the campus could turn to their advantage any sweeping "punishment."

This belief was stated by a key lawmaker last month, following a meeting in the governor's office concerning the sporadic violence at the University of Buffalo.

The militant minority, the legislator said, would like to provoke an overreaction that could be used to "radicalize" large numbers of fellow students.

During the session, Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature's leaders were subjected to almost constant pressure, especially from lawmakers in the Buffalo area who, in some cases, had been literally sickened by acts they knew first-hand were going on at the 22,000-student State University center there.

Buffalo stood out in 1970, the way the takeover of the student union at Cornell University had the year before, as a symbol of contempt for the law. Other schools, such as Hunter College,

Bills Await Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—More than 1,200 bills awaited action by Gov. Rockefeller today in the aftermath of the recently adjourned 1970 session of the legislature.

If past experience holds true, Rockefeller could be expected to veto between 20 and 25 percent of the number and sign the rest.

He approved one bill Tuesday that will permit him to appoint two more members of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

The bill-signing period continues 30 days after the close of the legislature and thus will end May 20. Bills not signed after that period are automatically vetoed—a tactic Rockefeller has never used.

As a matter of policy, Rockefeller explains his disapproval of a particular bill with an accompanying veto message. He rarely explains his approval of measures.

Of the bills left on his desk by the legislature, 144 are guaranteed approval. These are the so-called program bills, which were submitted to the legislature at his request.

These bills include proposals to create an Environmental Conservation Department and a Division of Consumer Protection, to raise the minimum wage in the state, to remodel the Public Service Commission, and to provide $28 million in state aid to parochial and other private schools.

Two major Rockefeller programs were rejected in the legislature—his universal health
